Barry,
Now listen here, shorty... (only kidding).
I can't really say what I want to say cus words don't come too easy for me. (I wish I could write poems & songs like you... you write so beautifully). Anyway, I can't tell you how much I really like you & how much I love your friendship. We've had alot of good times & bad times (yays - but what are friends for, anyway? You've been so nice to me listening to my problems & putting up with my unpredictable personality. Thank you. I sure hope next year that we still stay friends (like we are) or become EVEN BETTER FRIENDS O.K?
And listen, when do I get a ride in that tuff convertable of yours? Well, have an outasite summer and will you write me? (I'll be in Connecticut) - I'll give you the address. Good luck always,

Love forever,

Dedication: Hats Off to Mrs. Holbert

. . .This year the Lancer Legend gratefully dedicates the 1969 yearbook to Mrs. Priscilla Holbert. During her five years at TOHS she has proved herself to be a capable teacher, a dedicated journalist and an outstanding person.

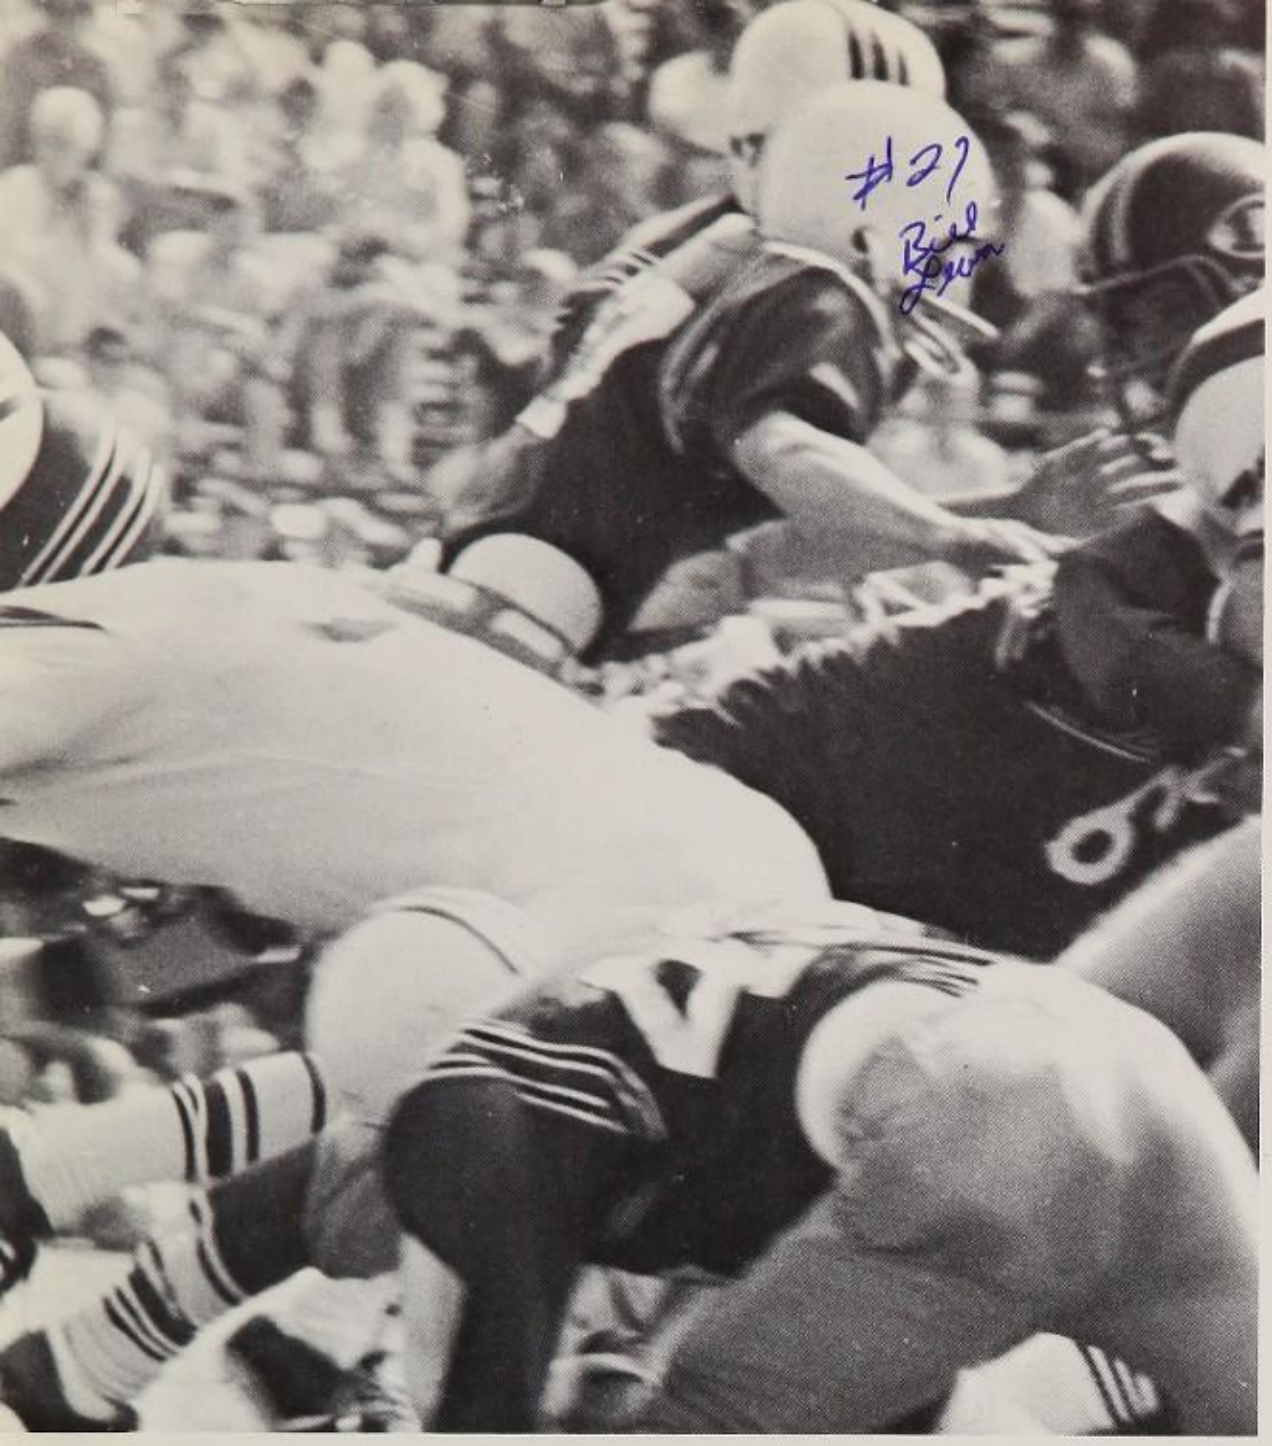
As a teacher, Mrs. Holbert has undoubtedly encouraged many students to follow a career in English or in journalism. As an advisor to the school newspaper, she has succeeded in making the Lancer not only one of the best, but also the only weekly school paper in Ventura County. Few are the students who do not rush to buy the newspaper every Friday, and fewer are those who realize the effort and work behind that paper.

The Lancer Legend therefore extends a warm thank-you to Mrs. Holbert in appreciation for all she has done for TOHS.

It Begins Here

This is where it all really starts. There is the sudden realization that life is not going to dwell constantly in the basements of elementary school, nor even remain long in the rarified atmosphere of high school. And if one does not start to discover himself now, when will he?

So it is that the quest for identity begins in earnest. One may express this search through material means—a new style of hair, a difference in speech, or even a new group of friends. But eventually identity is reached through an attitude: shaped by one's teachers, molded by one's friends, and tempered, ultimately, by the person's own concern for others. This is how it begins at TOHS.



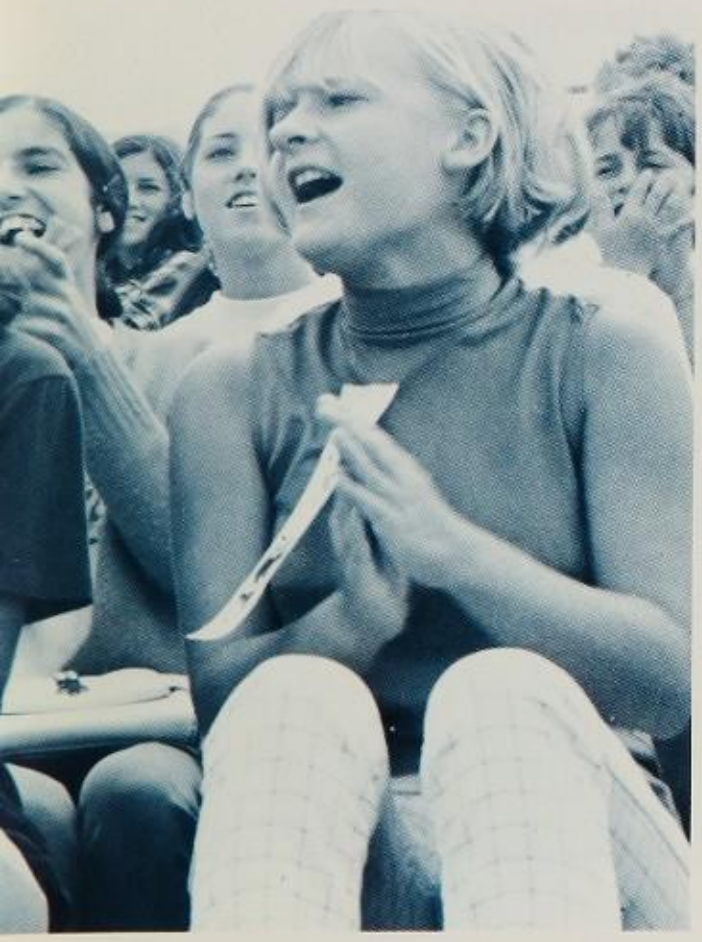
Victory:

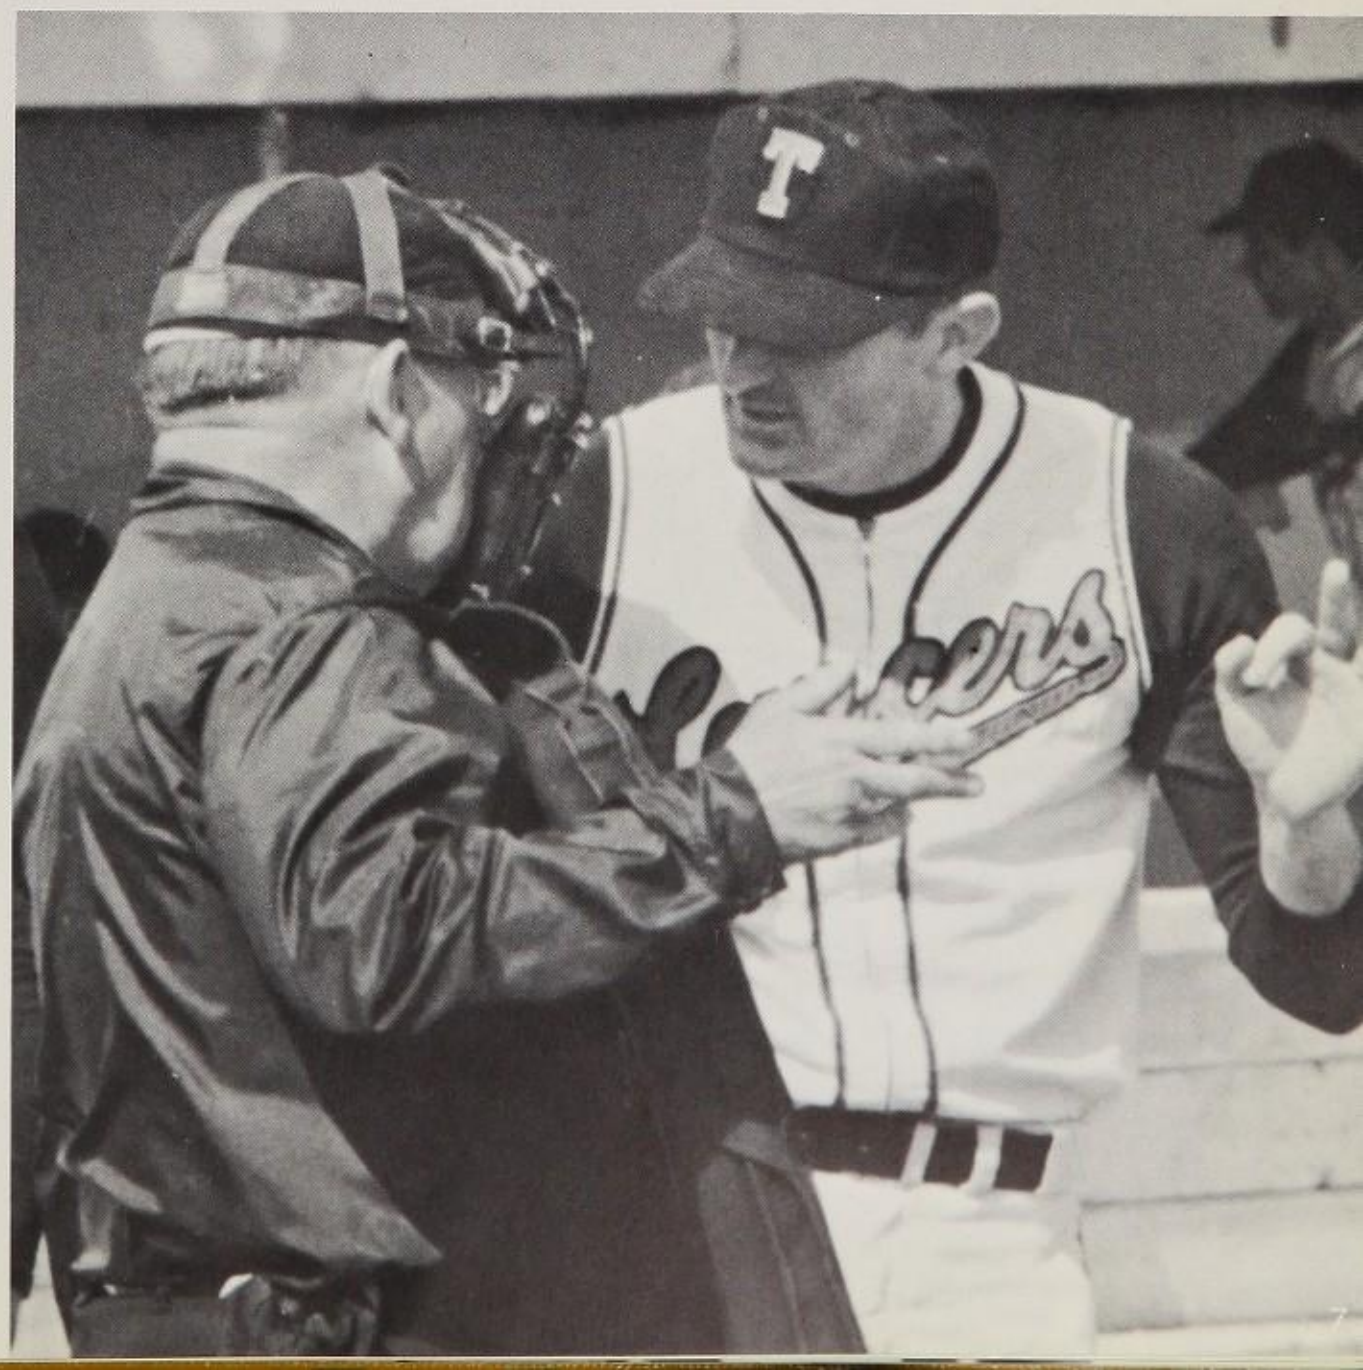
How Sweet it is

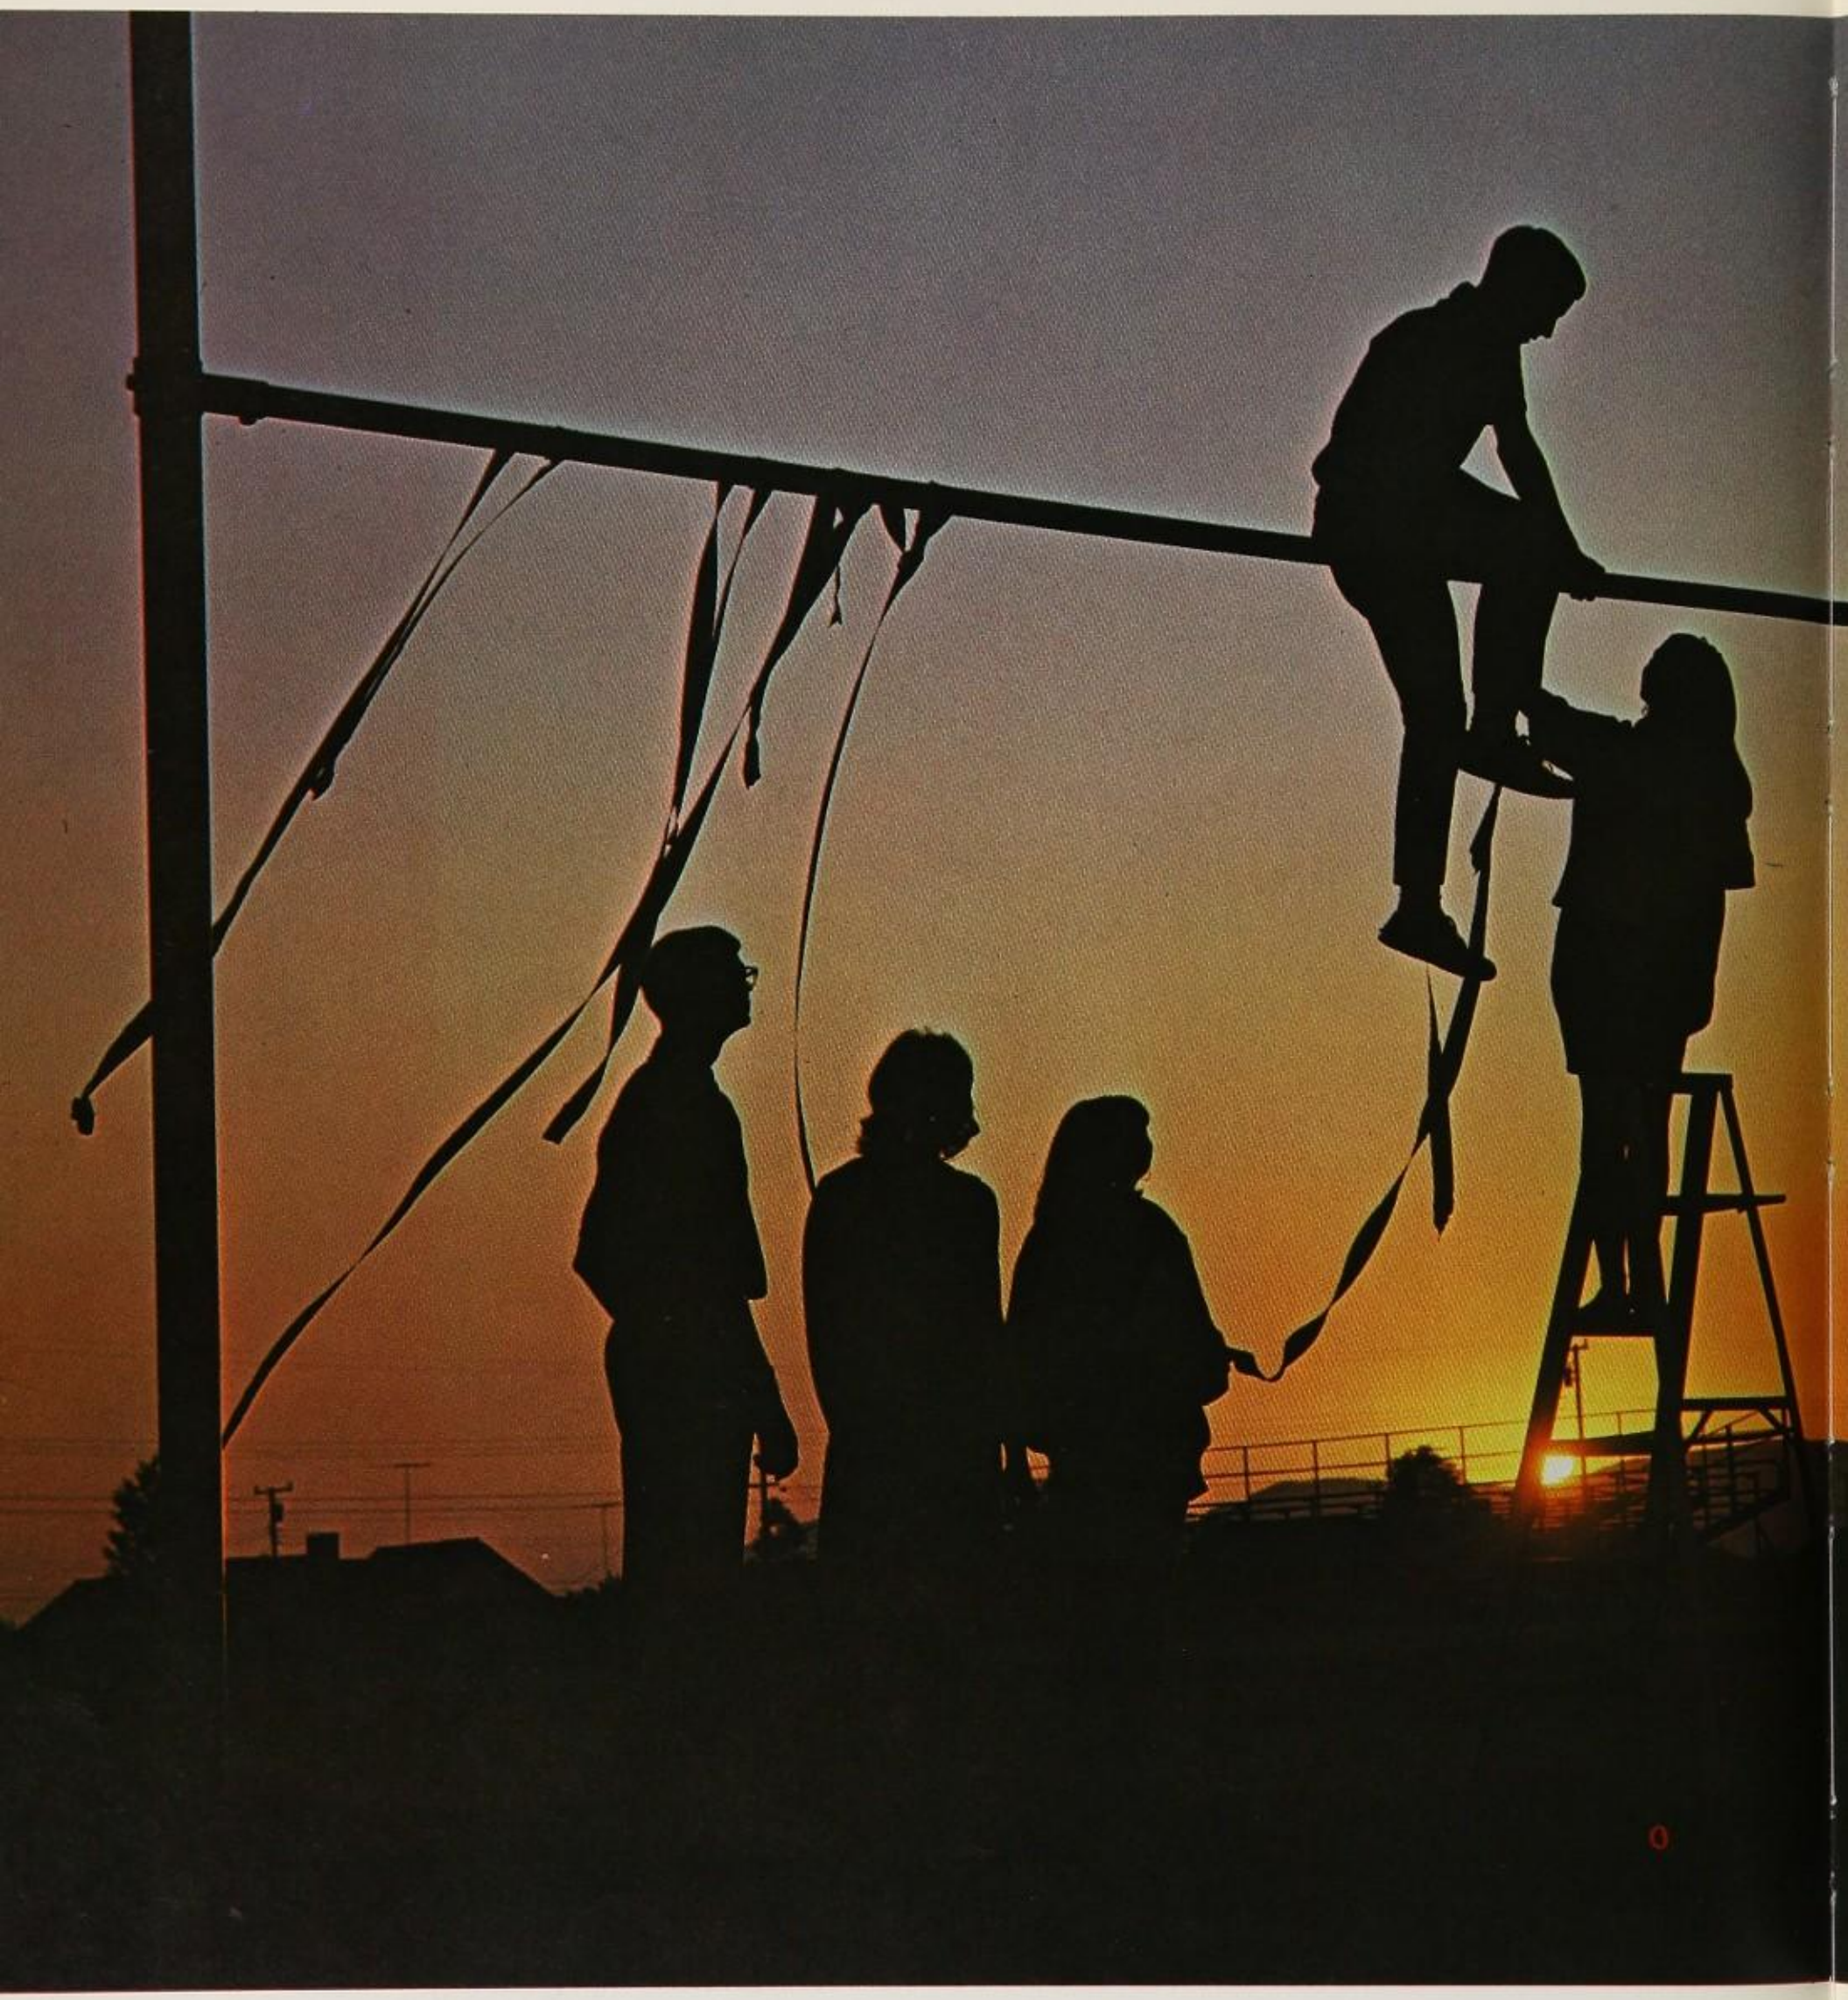
The last agonizing strides to the tape . . . the rush around end with a precious pigskin . . . heated discussions over disputed calls . . . great crowds raising the surge of triumph . . . here is reflected the Lancers' quest for victory.

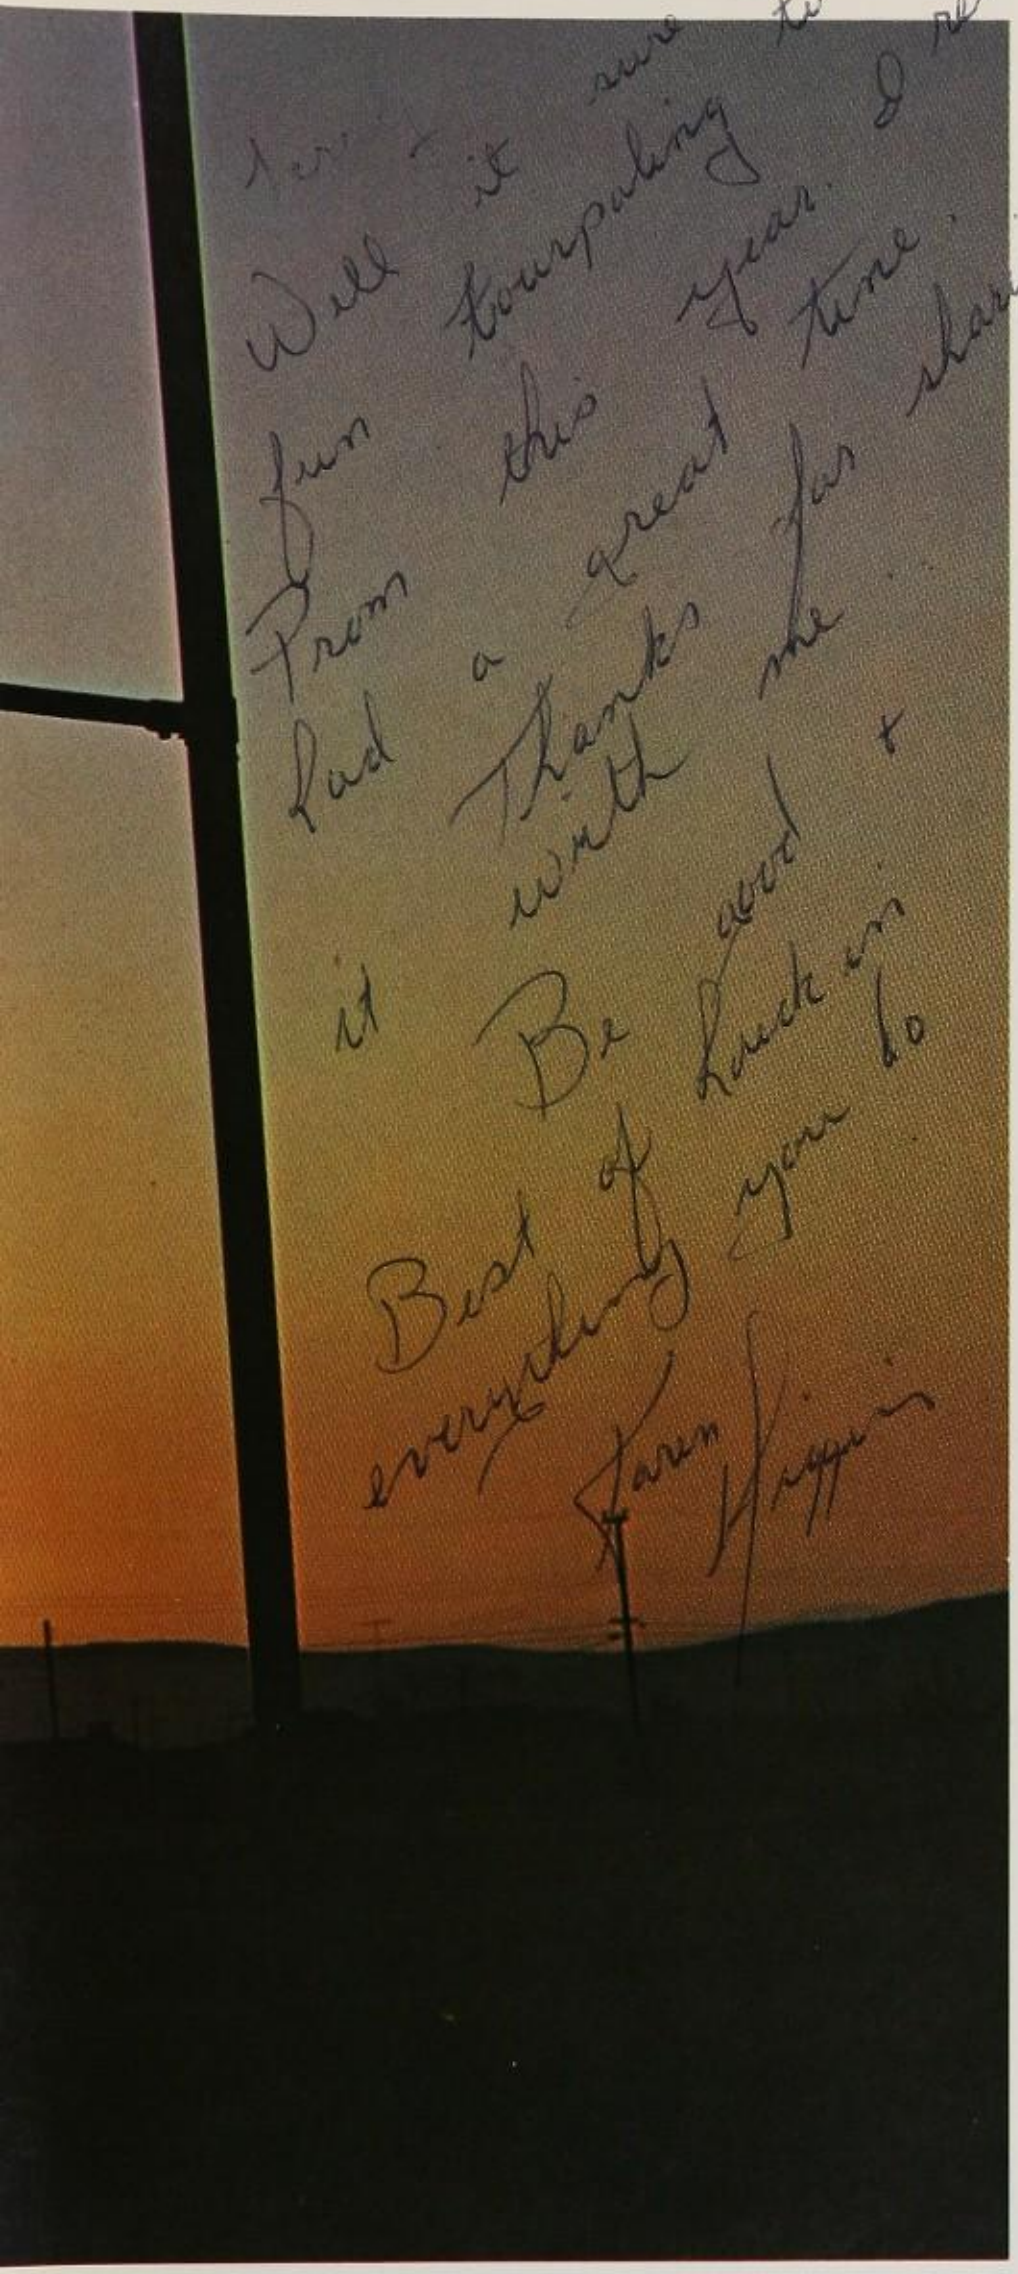
It is a quest, bred on the field of conflict, which extends beyond it, to the classroom, the home and the community. Its attainment is what builds confidence, poise, spirit and, above all, pride.

Thousand Oaks High can boast a proud record for confronting the challenges of conquest and emerging the victor time and time again: "For Lancers we in battle fair we keep our honor bright, to prove to all our right to wear our colors green and white."





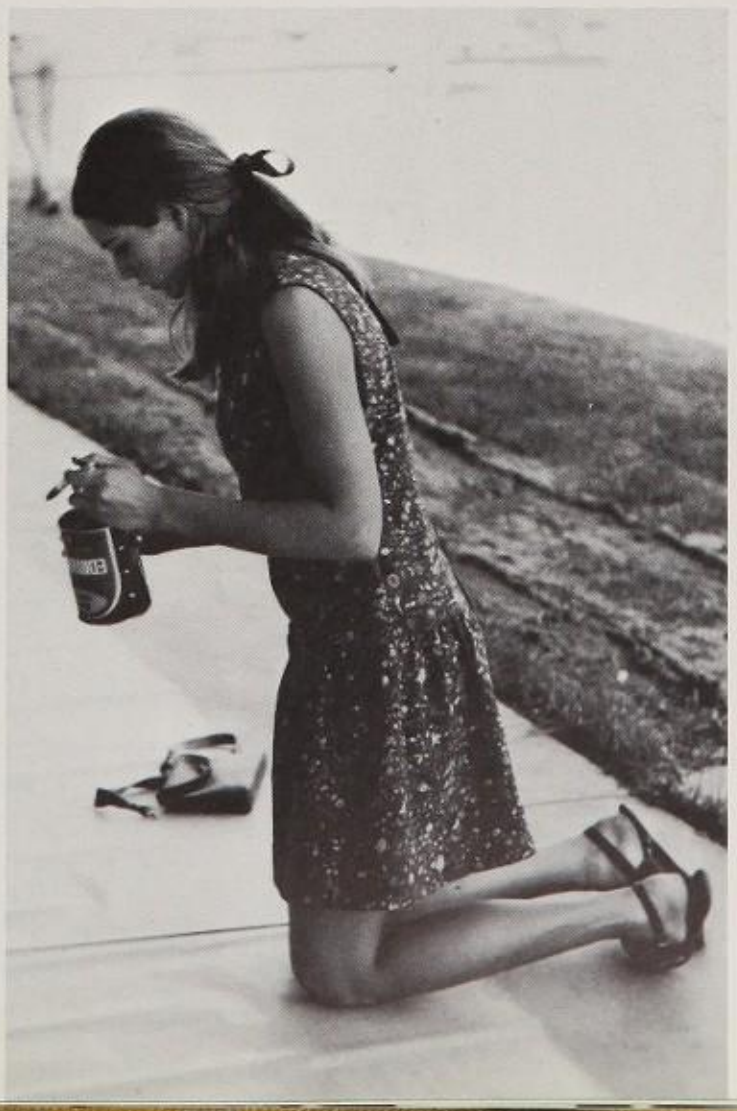




Participation:

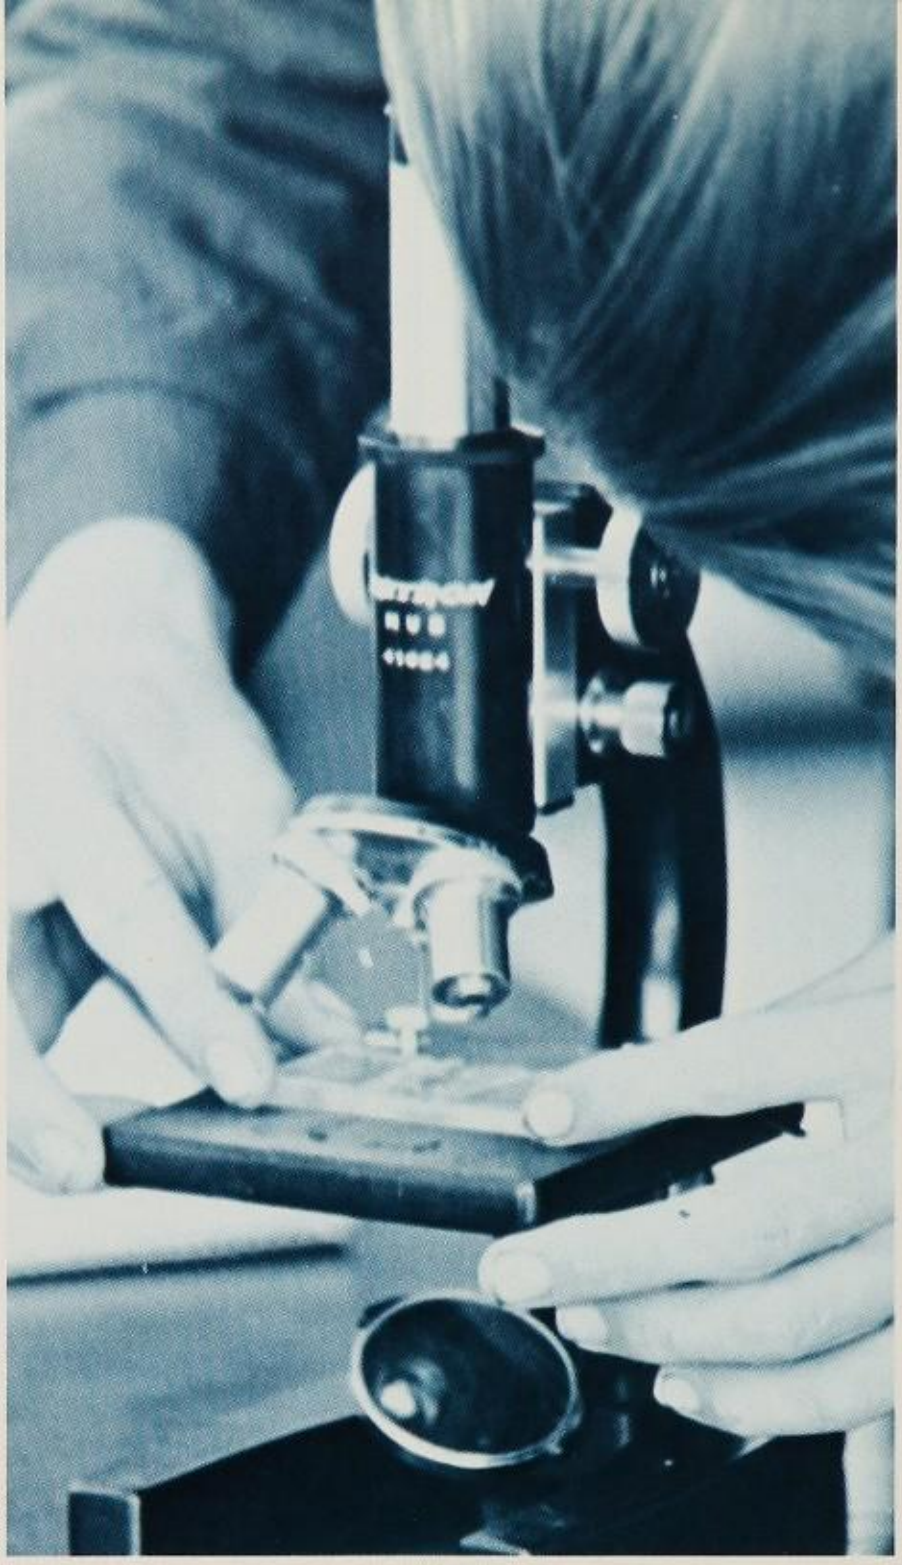
All Join in

Student interests at Thousand Oaks are varied, but the quest for participation is shared by all. Students may group together for the development of special skills or talents, or perhaps they merely enjoy the excitement of getting together with others of similar thoughts for discussion and group activities. Either way, participation—that thrill of mutuality—urges all to join, while clubs on campus serve as convenient opportunities for cooperation. Only a student's will to join determines the satisfaction of the quest for participation . . .

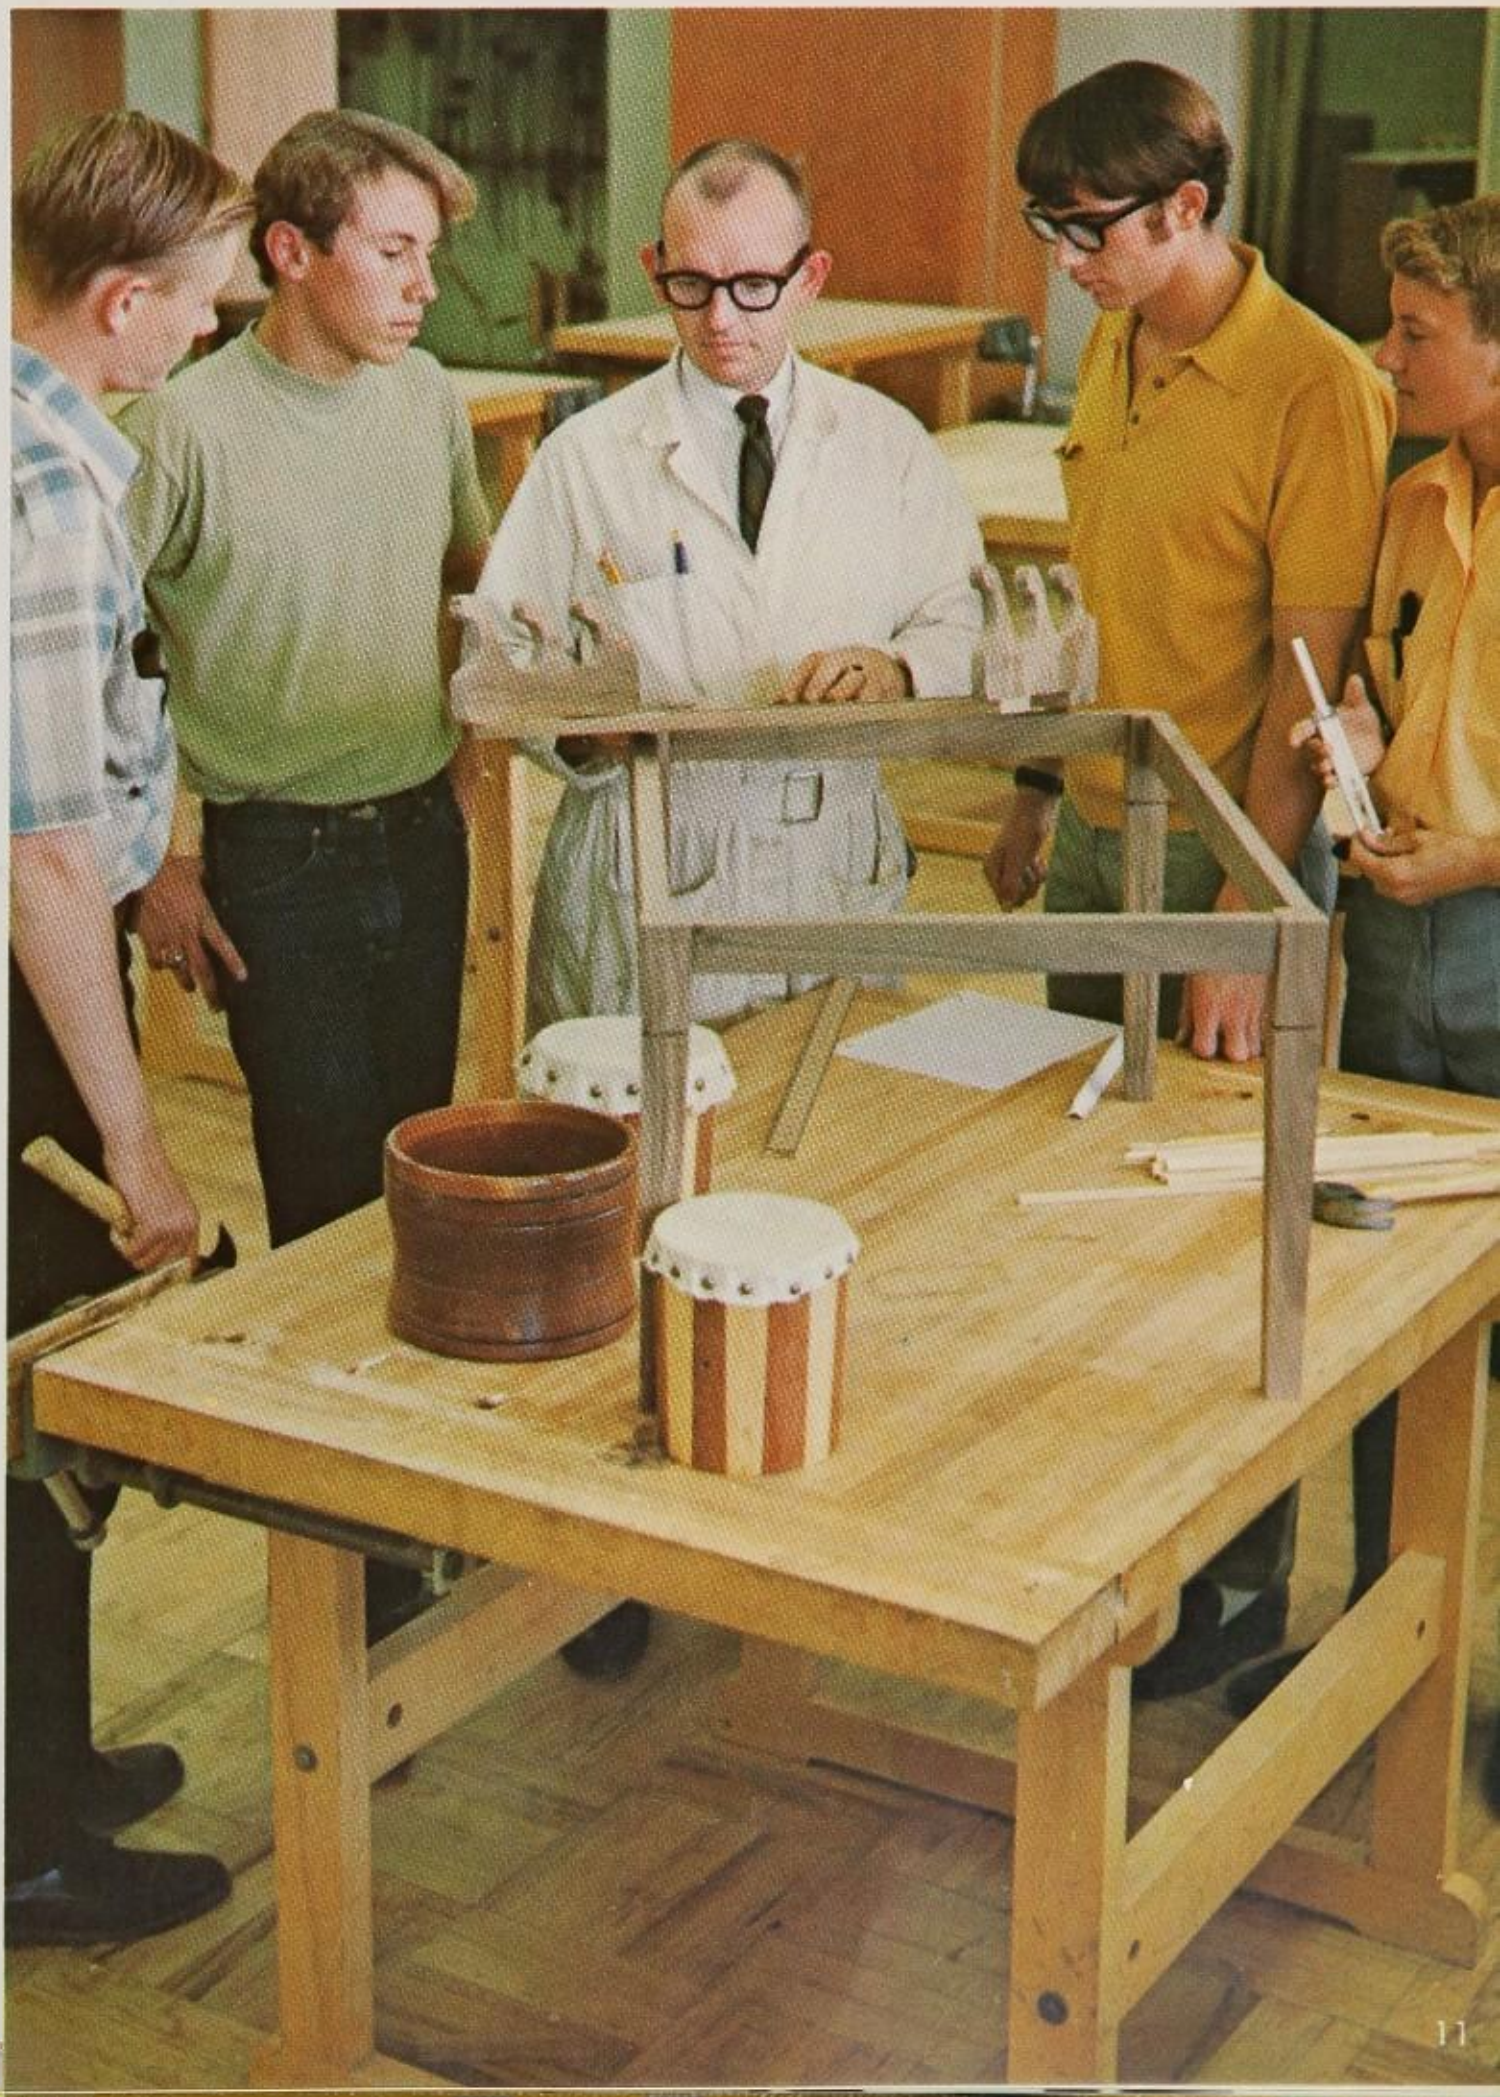


A Lancer's quest for knowledge always concerns an elusive goal, whether it be the final solution to a complex algebra problem, the correct conclusion for a week-long chemistry experiment, or the last phrase on the final draft of a term paper. However, his quest usually involves the intense personal satisfaction of grasping this elusive goal, giving him the confidence and desire to continue . . .

But the satisfaction is not limited to one's high school years, for although knowledge may be a goal in itself, its attainment makes a student's satisfaction linger and deepen throughout his education—both as a high schooler and as an adult . . .



Knowledge: An Elusive Goal



Dear Thanks for a wonderful time working with you in Drafting 3 - the best of luck to you as a wonderful Thursday year in drafting
Best Wishes
James Edward

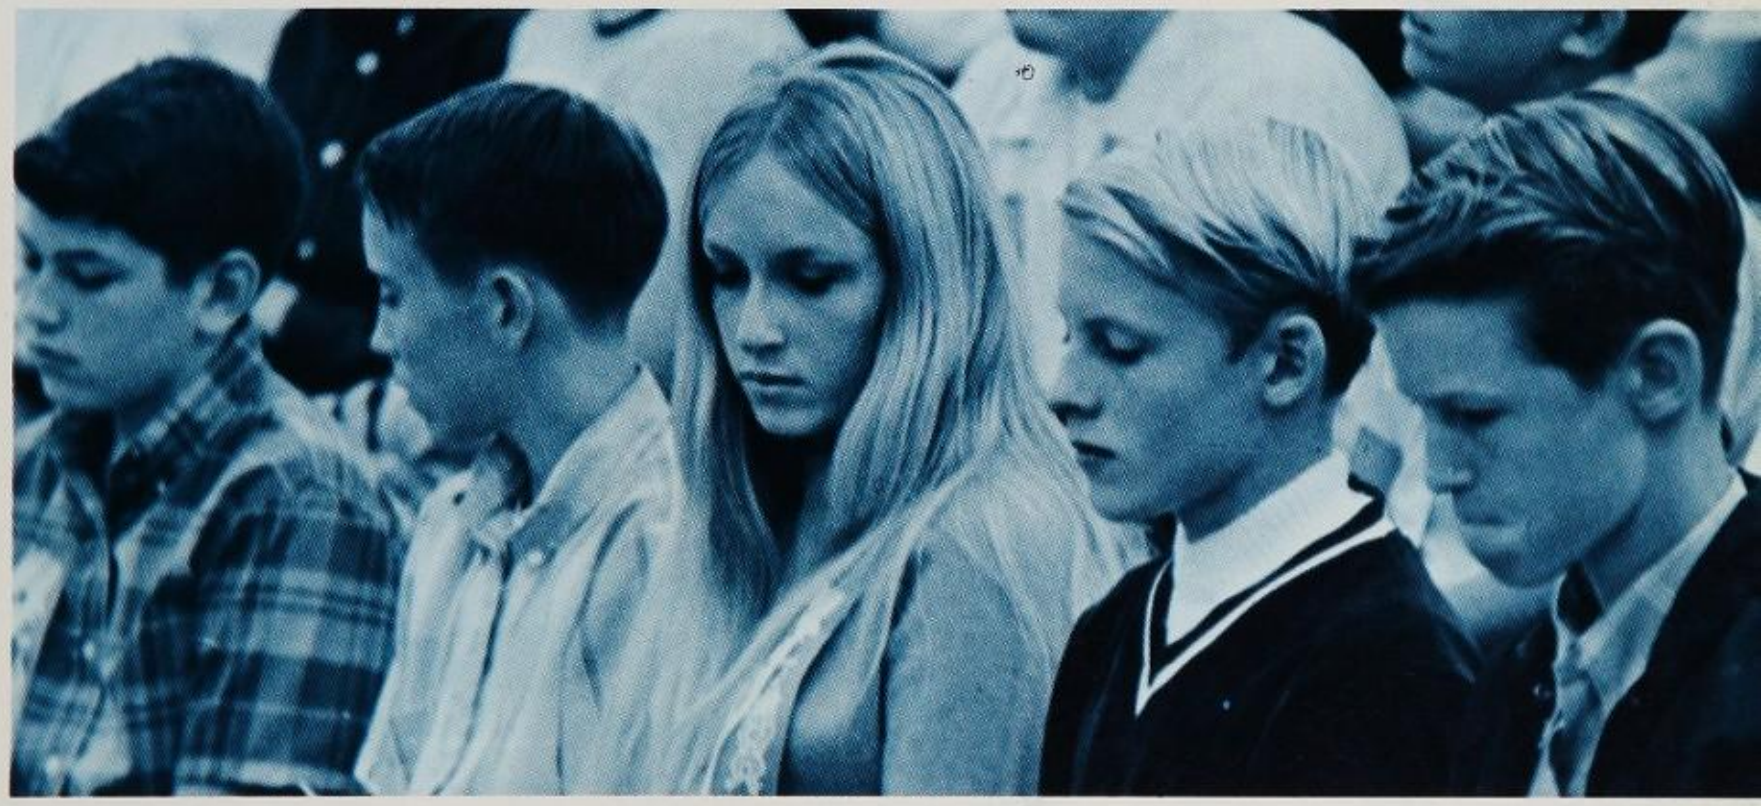
Friendship: The Circles Grow

Small circles of companions grow; greater, ever-enlarging circles form and continue to be formed as each student pursues his own quest for friendship. Whispered conversations in the classrooms, lunch-hour chats, locker sharing —even daily bus trips contribute to this goal. Each student seeks and receives friendship in an individual manner, many creating bonds that will endure long after the last bell has rung at Thousand Oaks High School.

For it is the sharing of experiences, whether they be good or bad, that cements the union between friends. So the circles of friendship continue to grow, as the student continues his quest for friendship at TOHS.



Student Life

Quest For Identity

A Lancer's quest for identity is represented here by designer Kendall Wolfe through a mirror with the sun behind it, interlocked with the symbols for male and female on either side. The mirror represents introspection—a looking within—the sun portrays the dawning of reason, and the last symbols point out that the search for oneself is unique to neither boy nor girl. The Student Life section is under the editorship of Stephanie Chew.

Fall: Where Did Summer Vacation Go?

It went so fast you'd have thought someone was chasing it. One day it's June 12, and everyone is looking forward to an eternal summer. Then suddenly it's September 10 already, and 2,200 strong return to don the green and white. As usual, fall began with the Frosh being awed at their first trip to high school during orientation day, September 5. Then it was Tuesday, and things started for real.

First there was the morning assembly on the field, the frantic scramble for program cards and the aimless wanderings toward strange classes. Then came the classroom rules, the new textbooks, and, finally, the end of that first, long day. Now there were only 175 more to go, and the year loomed interminably ahead.

Feverish Preparation Results in Best Homecoming

Before anyone really had a chance to draw a deep breath of TOHS air, Homecoming was back again, this time earlier than ever. There were the usual weeks of feverish activity leading up to the biggest event of the year. And many disgruntled workers were heard to scratch their heads and mutter that they'd never make it. But the traditional Friday night napkin scramble resulted, finally, in one of the best parades ever.

First place trophy went to the Lancer Choir, while the Seniors and Juniors took second and third, respectively. In car competition, the songleaders' entry won top honors.

Meanwhile, the Art Club had put the finishing touches on a giant Lancer in the middle of the field, and the Friday pep rally had consolidated the spirit and excitement that preceded Homecoming.

Ever . . .

TOHS Royalty Reigns Over 1968 Homecoming

Terry,
I'm really glad I got to know
you in English this year,
cuz you're a really nice guy
I hope we'll have some classes together next year. well bc good and have fun this summer.

Tradition, Victory, Spirit Keynote Homecoming Day

What can be sweeter than a Homecoming day in November? One in October. At least that was the case this year, as the traditional festivities were moved up to October 26, a day that dawned bright and clear for Homecoming fans.

Despite the thrill of the parade, there were still some big events to come, not to be overshadowed by earlier exciting events, the varsity gridders rose to the occasion with a 14-6 victory over Simi's Pioneers. Then, cheered by victory, everybody danced the night away to the music of California Lutheran College's band at the Homecoming dance.

Assemblies, Basketball Close Out Fall

As the football season drew to a close at Thousand Oaks, the opening of the basketball season was heralded by the famed Lancer-Panther faculty basketball game. The Lancer faculty proved their prowess by easily defeating the coaches of Newbury Park, although Panther Principal Elmer DeSilva clawed his way to victory over Mr. Rosser in the free-throw contest.

Fall was also marked by a mass escape from classes as Girls' League presented the fall fashion show, where girls from all four classes spent an hour viewing some of the latest teen styles, modeled by fellow students. Another "break" was made with the Atomics Assembly, in which students were enjoyably instructed in the characteristics of atoms and atomic energy. December and the opening of the Junior Class Play marked the end of fall.

The Junior Class Play, presented at the opening of December, proved its appeal by filling the Park Oaks Auditorium during each of its three performances. The student actors were acclaimed as some of the best ever and the entire production brought repeated applause and laughter from the audience. The play "Kiss and Tell" provided the story of parents deeply concerned with their children's lives—and the consequences which ensue. Directed by Mr. O'Hara, the play proved its value by earning nearly one thousand dollars for the Class of 1970.

Dances, Crazy Hats, Plays Fill Winter Days

Winter. The coldest and wettest in history for Southern California.

But at Thousand Oaks High, activities were booming with assemblies, crazy hats, plays, and basketball, plus the bliss of Christmas vacation.

The Christmas assembly, traditionally presented just before the close of school in December, always includes performances by the Lancer choral groups and a special skit by the drama classes. This year, "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" was presented by a cast headed by Dave Hall.

Then came vacation, closely followed by a rainy Crazy Hat Day. The jollities of this day removed much of the bitterness of the return to school, setting a mood of ease at the close of the semester. As the semester ended, celebration gripped the campus, with the spirit heightened by a special concert by "The Match." This concert was the direct cause of a sellout of their record "I Can Feel the Love Year Coming."

That prediction was proved only too true, as the ASB plays opened shortly after. These three plays, presented by actors from all four TOHS class levels may have started a new tradition at Thousand Oaks.

'69 Queen, Court Preside Over Winter Sports

The winter sports queen and her princesses were crowned at the basketball game against Ventura in January and honored at both an after-game dance and at the formal Senior Ball. The ball's theme of "Winter Wonderland" was enhanced by the presence of the queen and her court, as the tradition of a winter queen marked its second year in practice.

As spring at T.O. sprung, activities on campus blossomed. First came the Senior Class Play, "Tom Jones." The Euphorians provided the dramatic hit of the season in this production, filling the Redwood auditorium to capacity on each of its three performances. Then the mood became more romantic, as the Class of 1970 presented the Junior-Senior Prom in May. Held at the Las Posas Country Club, the dance expressed the tone of the season through its theme, "An Old-Fashioned Springtime."

Cheerleaders: Integral Part of Student Life

An integral part of student life is the school pep squads.

The tradition of award-winning varsity cheerleaders at TOHS was upheld this year as the varsity squad brought home honors from the Squaw Valley cheerleading camp. Present at every rally and game, the cheerleaders did much to promote school spirit, and contributed much time and effort in perfecting their routines. Through constant practice, the cheerleaders were always ready to cheer the players on and rouse the Lancer fans to frenzied enthusiasm.

In 1969, TOHS had a mascot for the second year. Sue Gramm, though she played an important part in the routines of the cheerleading squad, retained her individuality by leading her own cheers.

The JV Cheerleaders equaled the varsity in effort. Perfect attendance at all junior varsity and C games showed the spirit of the JV squad.

Songleaders Add Spice to Sports

The Songleaders were responsible for leading Lancer rooters in rhythmic cheers and songs, giving TO fans both spirit and "soul." At every game and rally, the songleaders roused Lancer spirit with peppy dances and energetic cheers. The Senior Class was especially inspired by the newly-revised class cheer, led by the songleaders at every rally.

The freshman cheerleaders upset a TOHS tradition by leading their class to victory in the class cheers at fall rallies. Even more surprising, this was achieved only after a few weeks of practice.

Organizations

Quest For Participation

The many clubs on campus, although varied in membership, share the common goal of mutual participation. In addition, individual members of each organization interact in sharing the common interests of the group. These concepts are symbolized in Kendall Wolfe's creation on the left, showing a series of interlocking rings surrounding a central star of purpose. The organizations section shows some of the many ways in which a Lancer's quest for participation is fulfilled 1969 was one of the most active years yet for the Associated Student Body at TOHS. Led with a dynamic cabinet, headed by President Kelly Fadler, the ASB met their boom budget with soaring SAC sales and special, new activities such as the ASB plays. Other successful drives included the October Homecoming, the ASB sports night, and several assemblies and dances. This year, the student cabinet also was informed of characteristics of other school governments, as constitutional revision was again encouraged by several individuals. The outstanding factor of the year, though, was the booming budget and special activities.

Clubs and Court: Heah Come De Judge

This year, the Student Senate was active in ratifying budget allocations, and then searching for uses of money as the budget was met. The Student Court, too, was not idle as several cases were brought to the bench for judgment.

The California Scholarship Federation continued its policies of field trips for outstanding students, as money drives brought cash into scholarship funds. The Inter-Club Council led an active year in coordinating club activities.

Mission Impossible: Deadlines

The Lancer Legend staff this year forged on despite innumerable delays to meet deadlines with the Legend publishers. Inspired by last year's B+ rating in collegiate competition, editors and other workers spent many an afternoon and late night grinding out layouts and copy for the Legend, sacrificing free - and homework - time. With the help of the advisors, they finally did it. (WARNING: This page will self-destruct in 30 seconds.)

The Lancer: A "Pressing" Topic

Publishing the only weekly school newspaper in Ventura County has become a TOHS tradition. Classroom instruction in the techniques and responsibilities of newspaper production was put to practical use daily as the staff labored feverishly to meet deadlines. Reporting the news, printing editorials and letters on topics of interest and sometimes controversy, and entertaining readers with features on current subjects such as fashion, rock music, and cars were staff goals each week.

The Lancer Choir featured three major concerts this year—a Christmas pageant, an Easter concert, and a spring show. In addition the group competed in choral festivals against schools throughout Southern California. Other activities of the choir included building a first place homecoming float, taking children from Camarillo State Hospital to Marineland for a day, a field trip to one of the area's major colleges, and a special rooters bus to a Lancer football game.

The Emeralds also kept an active schedule, singing for clubs, churches, and school activities. The highlight of the year was the Emerald Special, a hilarious evening of musical farce and fun.

The Lancerettes, a group of Thousand Oaks High coeds, enjoy singing as both a pastime and as a regular class at school. The girls not only performed at music night and the Christmas assembly; they also competed with other advanced glee clubs from neighboring schools both at home and away.

Lancer Band Active In Parades, Rallies, Games

Christmas, more than ever, was the time to be jolly this year for the Lancer marching band. In two excursions over the Conejo Grade, band members showed their style in Christmas parades, and both times came away with honors. The bandsmen took first place in the Oxnard parade, and then came away from the Camarillo parade with a third-place award.

Back at home, the band kept busy with two concerts and numerous half-time shows at home and away football games. Not content with just its marching and stage productions, the band also provided a smaller group of musicians who performed as a pep band at basketball games and school rallies.

New at Thousand Oaks this year, Mr. David Wheeler directed the band to its fine shows in parades and concerts.

Drills Pay Off . . .

At the opening of this year, there was no TOHS drill team. And when Mr. Feller volunteered to form such a group, speculation ran high on campus on its possibilities. Many students enjoyed viewing the hours of after-school practice in marching and maneuvering. Finally, though, sore feet, tired minds, and the ringing of Mr. Feller's hoarse voice paid off, as the Lancer Drill Team was treated to a standing ovation at their debut during basketball season. For the rest of the year, the drill team pleased audiences with their performances at rallies, sports events and county parades.

The Lancer Flag Twirlers returned this year to add color and excitement to the band's parades. These girls marched with the Lancer Band after attending a special competitive summer camp at Long Beach improving techniques and adding routines.

It's A Flush-Five Big Clubs At TOHS

Several clubs could lay claim to being the busiest on campus, among them Girls' League, the Service Club and Future Teachers of America. The girls opened with a frosh orientation day, then followed with a fall fashion show, a sportsnight and spring fashion show, and the Girls' League backward dance.

During the Spring, FTA's members helped teachers around the Conejo Valley for a day after having given a Valentine's Day party for the Lutheran Church school. As usual, the Service Club volunteered to provide service at school banquets and dances. Two other clubs, Boys' Federation and FHA, continued their efforts for greater membership and participation.

Books, Blab And All That Business . . .

This year, NFL encouraged students to participate in speeches and debates, while Figalisig united the many Lancers taking various foreign languages. FBLA helped to promote student interest in business techniques and furthered knowledge in these areas. This year, FBLA added an awards system for all business education classes, as well as attending a business convention in far-away exotic Sacramento. Ye Olde Student Store kept Lancers well-supplied.

Art Club and JCL—But It's All Greek to Me

This year, the Art Club was active in museum field trips, as well as several "painting picnics" on Saturdays. Meanwhile, the Woodcraft Club improved such techniques as carving and shaping wood into artistic and useful forms, making them true "wood-be's". The Radio Club "shocked it to 'em" this year with many meetings, discussing and building electronics projects, and a special field trip to the KNJO transmitter. Continuing its policy of raising student interest in ancient cultures, the Junior Classical League spent the year in money-raising projects and examination of classical languages and civilizations. The Future Medical Leaders charitably supported a Korean orphan this year, and assisted in the Muscular Dystrophy drive. These students, interested in various medical professions, also took several field trips to hospitals, clinics, and nursing schools.

The Rally Club continued to build spirit by decorating the gym and the field for athletic events. The Science Club was active in many field trips.

Foreigners, Fictioners Fuse

The American Field Service fulfilled a tradition this year by again checking in as the largest club on campus. The most important goal of this organization was to finance the foreign exchange student program, through which Lancer Ann Kornblit was sent to Austria and Margie Newman visited from Tasmania.

The campus literary magazine, Reflections, published by an all-student staff, assembled chosen literary works by other Lancers in two volumes.

Margie . . .

When you've been waiting a year to find out where you're going to spend a year as an AFS student and you come home one night and your parents tell you that you're going to Hog River, Alaska, you really don't know how to react! When I found out that I was going to spend my year in Thousand Oaks, I was really thrilled that I was going to California, but finding Thousand Oaks on the map was almost impossible.

That was nine months ago and now the year is over. It has gone so fast that I've hardly seemed to have had time to take in all the fantastic things that have been happening to me. I have really enjoyed my year at Thousand Oaks High and it is an experience that I will never forget, and for all that the school, the students, the AFS Club and my family have done for me, I will be forever grateful.

Quest For Victory

The Lancers' quest for victory involves not only triumph, but also tremendous striving to gain it. Here, Kendall Wolfe portrays this spirit with the wreath of victory, long a symbol of successful achievement and superior sportsmanship. The Lancer Legend captures this same spirit in this section by reproducing the thrill of individual and team competition, and reintroducing the athletes who produced the excitement of the season. The sports section was edited by Jim Rehnberg.

Gridders Improve League Record To 3-4

The best varsity football team since the 1965 Frontier League champs took on the Channel League, and came away with a 3-4 league record and a 3-6 overall slate.

Under the direction of Head Coach Joe Howell and assistants Bob Riddle Emmett (Rosy) Nolan and Bob Musella, the Lancers took on the Crespi Indians in the first game. In a match that was scoreless until the final moments of the third quarter, the Lancers lost, 33-0.

In the next game, against the Dominguez Dons—dominated by the Lancer offense and defense, but most of all by their fumbles—the Lancers once again lost by the seemingly lopsided score of 30-13.

Then in the Channel League opener against Buena at Larrabee Stadium, the Lancers scored first, but couldn't score again, and lost 22-6.

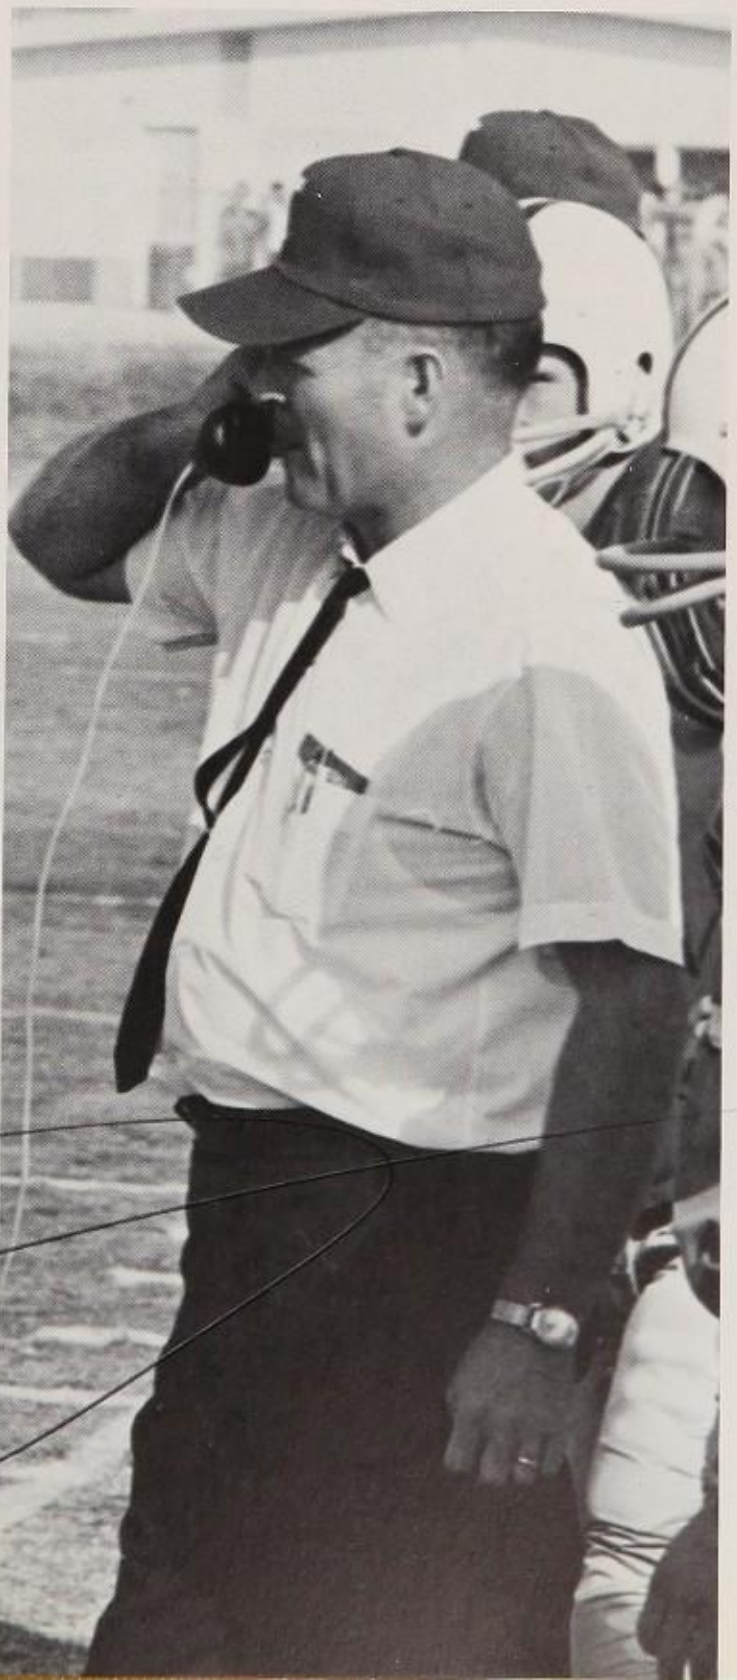
Seven-Year Win Tradition Over Simi Upheld

Against Ventura at Larabee Stadium the Lancers scored the same number of touchdowns, but got one less extra point, losing 14-13.

At home against Hueneme, the touchdown count was three-to-three but the Vikings kicked three extra points to the Lancers' one, winning 21-19.

With a seven year winning tradition of victory over Simi to uphold, the Varsity football team won 18-13 in a heart-stopper.



The next encounter was with the mighty Santa Barbara Dons who lived up to their sixth place CIF rating by beating the Lancers 59-0.

Camarillo came to call and put up a stiff fight in this traditional battle before bowing. With Brad Butcher and Steve Reich out with injuries, Nick Candela and Dan Ramsey filled in admirably, Candela scoring both Lancer touchdowns, and Ramsey contributing important yardage on running plays and pass receptions. Quarterback Ron Giles went 10 for 17 to lead the Lancers to a 14-6 win.

The last game of the season was played at Oxnard's Houser Field, on a cold night, and a wet field. The elements couldn't stop the Lancers, however, as the offense rolled up 31 points, a season high, in a 31-26 win.

The top rusher of the season was Brad Butcher who carried for 348 yards. Butcher was followed by Kelly Fadler with 297 yards. Top passer was Ron Giles.

Gary Oliver, linebacker and offense guard, was named to the Channel League's First Defensive Team. On the Second Team Offense were Brad Butcher and B. J. Baier. Stan Mansfield made the second defensive team at safety.

The talented second year players of Coach Don Shotliff, led by the passing of Dan Herman and rushing of Bob Stebe, chalked up a 5-3-1 record, the single tie resulting from a scoreless duel with Camarillo.

Although Coach Don Salado's varsity cross country runners hung up a disappointing 1-8 record in tough Channel League competition this year, the JV and Soph-Frosh showed great promise for the next few seasons. With strong reinforcements coming up, plus the psychological advantage of the new Summit Hill course, the harriers were saying, "wait until next year." The torturous, hilly course will replace the old campus course.

Leading runners were, in the varsity division, seniors Gene Sidak and Bill Coleman, junior Terry Brennan and sophomore Joe Patton. Top JV runners included Phil Wagner, Joe Newton, and senior Bob Ahrens. Top Soph-Frosh runners were Pete Hazzard, Larry Crittenton and Rip Rense.

Varsity Posts 12-12 Season Record

This year the Varsity, coached by Dale Ackerman, posted a .500 12-12 season record. The all senior hoopsters charged to a 7-3 pre-season standing, but found the much tougher Channel League harder to cope with, running up a 5-9 slate.

The scoring load was carried by 6'2'' forward Jeff Schlecht with 359 points. John Siemens tossed in 342 to break the all time TO scoring record. Super sub Carl Womack often came off the bench to inspire the team.

Rebounding told the story in many of the scraps. Mike Cleary tore off 238 bounds while Jeff Schlecht grabbed 219 caroms.

As usual Ventura took care of league honors despite valiant Lancer outputs. For the first time the Cagers beat Buena, not once but twice, and they successfully held the bell from Simi.

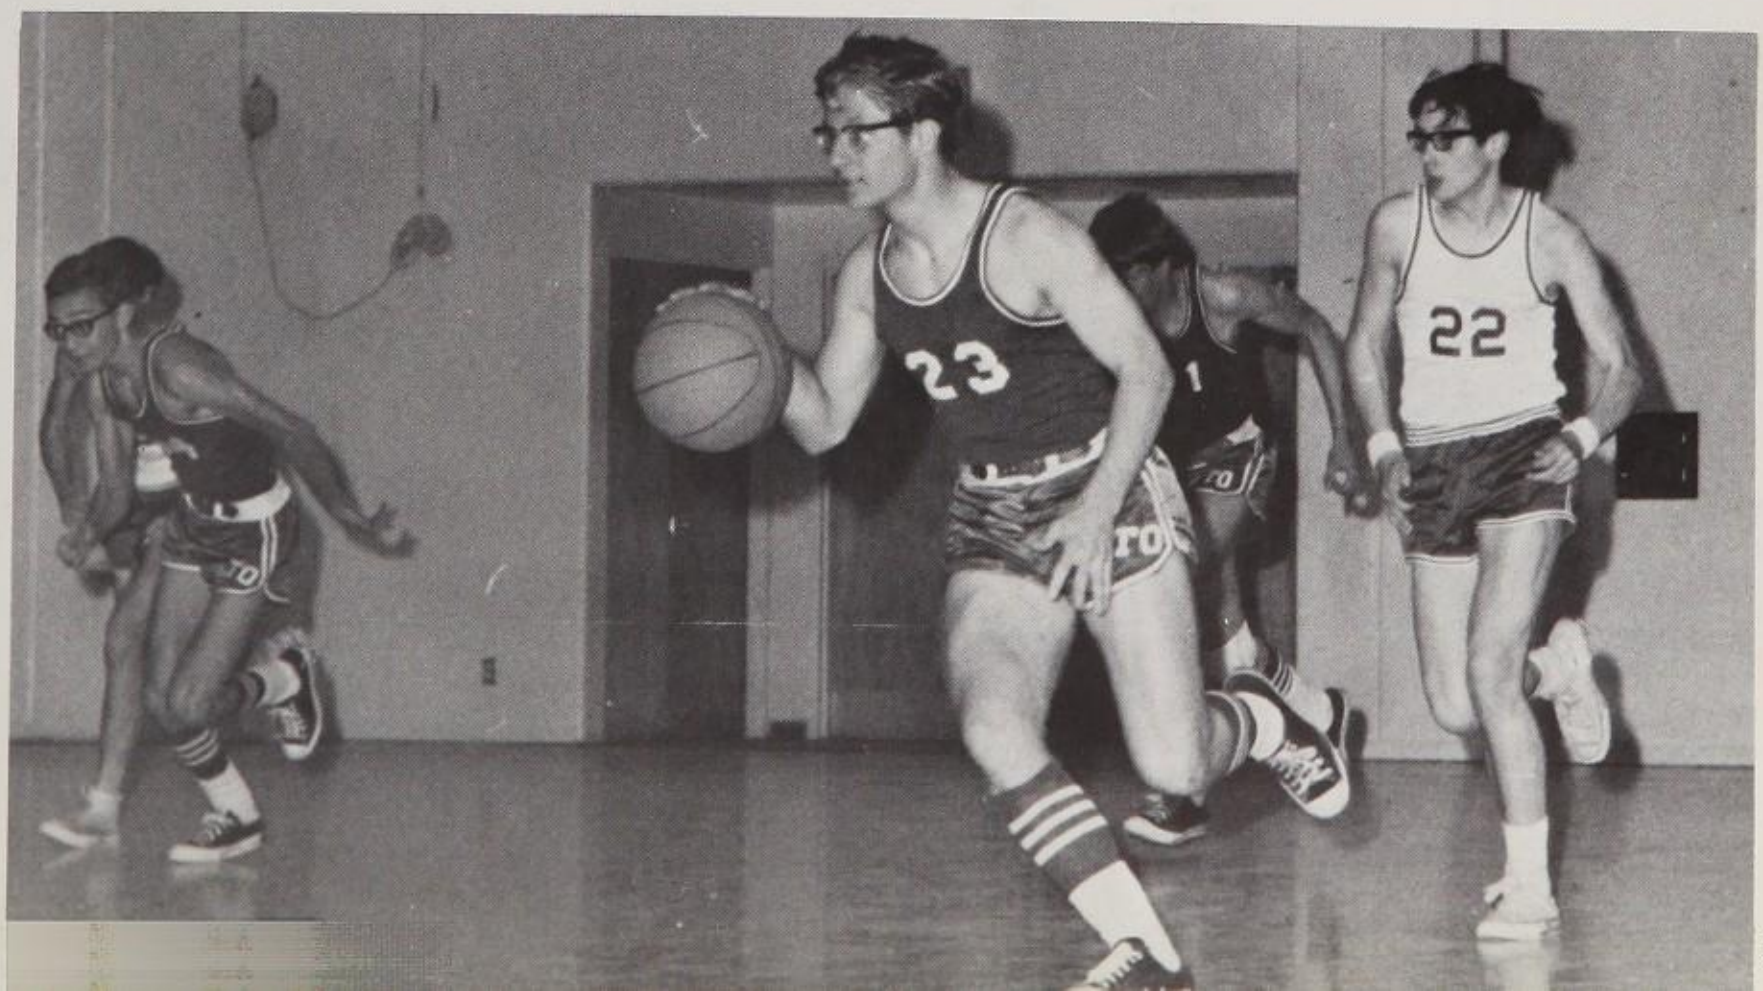
JV's Nab Loop Title, B's Fall to 1-13

Coach Keith Wilson's B's fell from a 12-10 overall record to a 4-15 slate this year. Inexperience hampered the B's as Coach Wilson was forced to start two freshmen, Bob Garza and Layne Burdick. Seniors Bob Nouchi and Mike Oliver did yeoman duty in their last year, Nouchi finishing as the second highest scorer and Oliver contributing a steady floor game and good defense, managing to finish as the team's third highest scorer. Jim Rehnberg led the team in scoring, and Layne Burdick grabbed the most caroms for the league's cellar dwellers.

In contrast to the B's, Coach Gene Lloyd's J.V.'s stormed to the league title undefeated in league play. Leading the J.V.'s to their record setting 20-1 overall slate was top scorer Jim Earl. A close second was Senior Nick Candela. Sophomores contributed greatly to the effort, Gary Habedank snaring the most rebounds, and Dan Herman supplying steady floor play. The J.V.'s broke the school scoring record, bagging 101 points against Oxnard in the final game of the season.



C's, Frosh Both Cop League Crown

The Frosh team followed in the footsteps of the frosh football team in remaining undefeated, as they whipped to a 14-0 season, setting the best record made by any TOHS basketball team. Coached by Ron Stillwell, the frosh were led in scoring by Bruce Barker and paced in rebounds by Dave Reich.

Coach Bill Shaw's Cee Team took the Channel League championship in their division, losing only two league games, both after they had cinched the title. Led by senior Pete Lipsett's excellent floor play, the scoring of John Covell, and rebounding of Gary Womack, the Cee's rambled to an 18-3 overall and 12-2 league record, and broke the 73 game winning streak of the Ventura Cee Team.

In tough Channel League competition, Coach Larry Stonebraker's varsity grapplers could only manage a 4-5 dual meet record, to finish in sixth place. Then, in post season action, Stan Mansfield, second in the 141-pound weight class, went on to further CIF competition.

Hopes were high, however, for future successful seasons, as the JV's finished second in league action with a 5-4 record. At the JV tournament at the season's end, Senior Mark Zachary took first in his weight class and senior Bob Webb took third in his. Juniors Kim Oliver and Mike Achenbach also placed in their respective weight classes, Oliver taking a first and Achenbach a second. Sophomore Randy Goddard took a second in the 148-lb. class.

Baseballers Make Pitch for Repeat Championship

This year's horsehiders took to the diamond, only to find it covered with rainwater that caused poor practice conditions and forced them to spend a week of preparation in the gym. Undaunted, they took to their task with diligence and struck off to renew the number one spot they have held in the Channel League for the last two years.

Once again coached by Ron Stillwell, with assistants Gene Lloyd and Jim Hansen, the Lancer nine based their hopes for a third crown on returning lettermen, Kelly Fadler, Mike Rippy, Rod Eggleston, Dan O'Mally, Fred Hebert, Mark Nelson, Randy Eagle and Kurt Russel.

Hopes for a strong showing rested on the pitching of seniors Rod Eggleston and Randy Eagle, juniors Larry LeQuire and Bob Minella and sophomore Pat Hobin, along with consistent hitting from outfielders Kelly Fadler and Brad Butcher.

Defensively the team was well rounded with an outfield of two seniors, Randy Eagle in right, Dan O'Malley in center and a junior, Brad Butcher in left. In the infield, with three seniors, Bob Bailey at first, Kurt Russell at second, Fred Hebert at short, and with sophomore Dan Herman filling in at third, the defense looked as strong. Catching duties fell to Kelly Fadler.

Underclass Sluggers Swing for Pennants

The JV baseballers, coached by Bob Riddle, looked for a repeat of last year's number one berth. With as solid a defense and offense as the varsity, their chances appeared equally as good. The JV's were led by batsmen Rex Naumetz and Jeff Otto, and by hurler Gary Trumbaur.

The Frosh hardballers, brought to their potential by Coach Don Shotliff, sought to keep their grasp on the number one spot in their league. With the offense led by Garth Marcus and Steve Johnson and defense by pitcher Layne Burdick, number one was not out of reach.

Hopes for an improved season from Coach Bill Shaw's cindermen were greatly dampened by unusually heavy rains. The team was forced to either call off or postpone its first meets and practicing was done mainly on the outdoor basketball courts and in the halls of the school.

The rain factor was largely responsible for the varsity team's early season defeats at the hands of Simi and Santa Barbara. However, the always tough B's won at Simi and narrowly lost to Santa Barbara, proving they had a chance to finish well in their respective league.

Tracklings Boast Skilled "Feets"

Last year the "B" and "C" teams sent several members to league semi-finals. One, "C" high jumper Kent Frame, went to C.I.F. semi-finals.

Hopes for this year rested on Bob Enderson and Tim Growney, the team's best dashmen, distance runners Gene Sidak and Terry Brennan, middle distance runners Dan Ramsey and Bob Brownlee. Hurdles were entrusted to Rick Shima, Jim Little and Mark Whitney.

In the field events, shot-put duties were handled by Ed Voelker and Greg Brizendine. Pole vaulters were Rick Ongstad and Ken Ralston. The high jumpers were Bruce and Kent Frame, and Bob Enderson. The long jump's top position was occupied by Bob Enderson.

Swimmers Hope for Big Splash

Coming from a second-place finish in Channel League action last year, the varsity mermen were looking toward a strong repeat performance.

Despite the fact that mechanical problems closed the TO pool, the swimmers began the year by swamping two Channel League foes, Santa Barbara and Oxnard.

The swimmers were led for the first year by Coach "Rosy" Nolan and Penci Culliver, TO's first female coach.

Tennis:

A Game of Love

The netters of Coach Ron Hedin looked to improve on their fourth place finish of last year. Coach Hedin's varsity did not lack experience, nearly all of them having lettered or at least played for him. The top players figured to be Russ Chew, Dennis Broersma, Kaoru Yokara, and Mike Oliver. A largely inexperienced J.V. team awaited its baptism into Channel League competition.

Both tennis teams were hurt by the torrential rainfall that ravaged Southern California, as two of their early matches were rained out.

Linksters Eye Title Drive

Coach Stanley Paumer's linksters were plagued by bad weather at the start of the season, but figured to be tough in league competition.

Seniors Carl Womack, third place in the Channel League and among the top twenty in CIF and Jack Hopkins, the only returning lettermen, headed the team. Hopes of improving last year's fourth place finish rested on juniors Steve Doye and Steve Growney and seniors Greg Peterson and Dave Emmons.

The team used the tough Los Robles Greens course for some matches and practiced on the Sunset Hills Course. The Lancers' main competition figured to be Ventura and Santa Barbara.

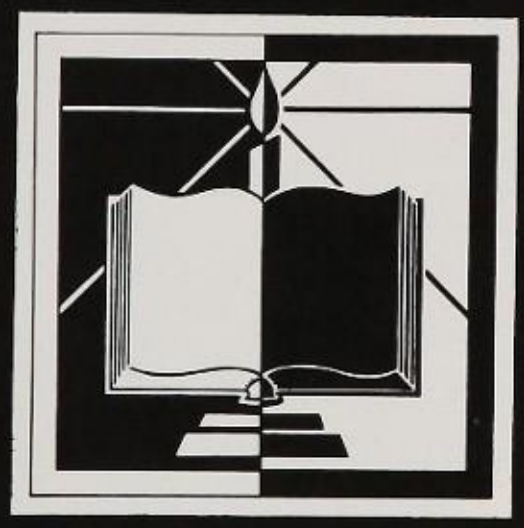
ACADEMICS

Quest For Knowledge



A Lancer's academic life is centered about the Thousand Oaks faculty, symbolized here by the volume of knowledge and the candle of enlightenment. The candle's beams permeate the surroundings, representing the spreading of knowledge throughout the world. In the same manner, teachers impart academic comprehension to their students, shedding light upon diverse subjects of interest. The Academics section is under the editorship of Jennifer Johnson.

Trustees Guide Huge District

Responsibility for adoption of school policies, setting up a budget for the school district and supervision of the seven district high schools fell to the Board of Trustees of the Oxnard Union High School District. This year a school bond issue came before district voters. The bill, which provided for a new little theater, football field lights, additional classrooms and an auto shop for TOHS, failed to pass.

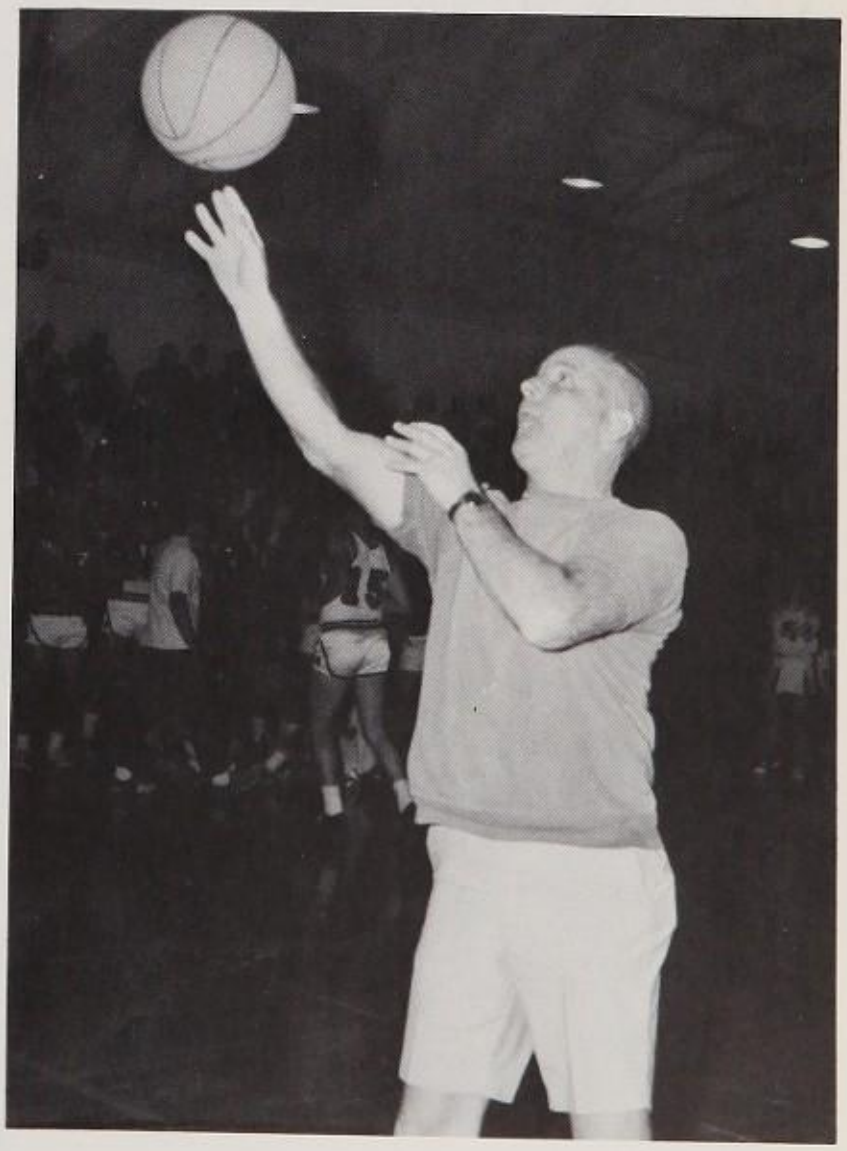
Principal: He's Attuned to Student Needs

In his seventh year as TOHS principal, Mr. Tom Rosser continued his policy of "friendly administration" in dealing with cries for changes in dress codes and requests for more student involvement in campus policy making. The willingness of TO's chief administrator to listen to and sympathize with student problems was probably a major factor in forestalling the student disturbances and sit-ins that plagued several other schools in Ventura County.

Early in the year, Mr. Rosser's efforts were warmly rewarded, as the P.T.A. presented him an honorary life membership in their organization. Later, the students demonstrated their feelings as they rose to their feet in a gesture of respect to applaud for their principal in the last assembly of the year.

BELOW: Mr. Tom Rosser lets go with free-throw in contest with principal of NPHS, Mr. Elmer De Silva. Suffering from the loss of his usual eagle-eye, Mr. Rosser lost.



Administration Directs Students

Changing fashions—especially the rising hemline and longer hair—forced campus adminstrators to resort to more disciplinary measures this year as students tried to bring the fads to school. However, Mrs. Schoenherr, for instance, also served as student government advisor, while Mr. Moore not only stuffed barbershops but also scheduled and directed every Lancer athletic event. Mr. Reser, too, was not just "the man behind the desk." His job involved extensive telephoning and special conferences.

Colleges and universities were the goals that the counselors set for their graduating students. The counselors aided the students in finding scholarships through such widespread areas as the AFL-CIO, National Merit, and nursing schools.

Office Staff: They Help Keep The Machinery Oiled

The office staff acted as a coordinator between the student body and the adminstration, being in charge of such duties as absence slips, bookkeeping, daily bulletins and filing. Mrs. Neighbours, as Mr. Rosser's secretary, had charge of the huge front desk and special school communications. Mrs. Romans received and delivered messages to students, and handled financial matters for campus organizations. The faculty secretary, Miss Moorehead, was in charge of typing and mimeographing materials, while other secretaries managed routine tasks.

Mr. Rankin ordered a significant number of changes this year in the library. If his wishes come true next year's students will see a carpeted floor, new bookshelves, and expansion. As usual, the library acquired some 700 new books this year. On numerous educational and entertainment subjects, these books aided the students in their studies.

The daily routines of the nurse's office have not changed much this year. However, the office was kept extremely busy during the two weeks prior to Christmas vacation with the Hong Kong flu epidemic.

School Manned By Able Crews

Mouths water as students wait in line for the nutrition prepared for them by the cafeteria staff. Cooking for 2300 students can be quite a task and this year the staff proved that it may be successfully undertaken.

Putting up with noisy students going to and from school, journeying to away gomes and field trip destinations was the job of the bus drivers of TOHS.

Another important service contributed to TOHS was the functions of the maintenance crew. Dividing into two shifts allowed the crews to perform the necessary duties of running a campus.

Other workers included the locker room attendants, who supervised the care of the equipment of the PE department. The audio-visual man handled classroom aids such as projectors, films and tape recorders.

English: Fieldtrips Highlight Year

In a year highlighted by field trips, the English department once again made its share of educational tours and viewings. Seniors, as usual, got in on the bulk of the action, with trips to Los Angeles to see Marlowe's play, "Dr. Faustus," and Brecht's "The Resistable Rise of Arturo Ui." But sophomore college-prep students also took to the road to see "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead."

Meanwhile, back in the classrooms it was business as usual. Mrs. Holbert's juniors went on the school tour with performances of self-written plays, while Mr. Andrews' sophomores performed "Julius Caesar" for the Latin classes. The freshman and sophomore English classes visited Mr. Harry Walker's reading lab, which contains $50,000 worth of equipment, for a period of two to six weeks.

Mr. Dain's French three and four class listened to and studied the opera "Carmen," while Mr. Stalnaker's Spanish classes viewed movies of South America. Students used the language lab to improve pronunciation and comprehension. The Spanish four students studied the modern Spanish translation of "El Cid."

In a year highlighted by excellent choir and band concerts, the music department continued its program of development. Mr. Wiles, department chairman, taught Music Appreciation, A Cappella choir, and Girls' Glee. Mr. Wheeler, besides the Varsity Band, instructed Beginning Instrument, Chorus and Concert Band.

As one approaches the industrial arts building, his ears are filled with the grinding of tools, the rasp of a wood saw, or the hiss of a welding torch. These are .the sounds of construction. This year, the industrial arts department "forged" ahead in student instruction, as six teachers supervised such courses as wood shop, drafting, electronics, and metal shop. These classes paved the way to future occupations in welding, carpentry, printing, or machine construction. Emphasizing individual student projects, industrial arts classes helped to put many Lancers into jobs. This year the industrial arts department was headed by Mr. Frank Perry.

Homemaking classes included courses in sewing, cooking, and child care. The classes allowed the girls to complete and add to their wardrobes and also to treat their friends to gourmet cooking.

Rooms cluttered with newspaper collages and papier mache masks were typical of the art department. Art students were allowed to expand their creative instincts in such media as metal, wood, plaster, oil and charcoal.

Business Classes Teach Practical Skills

Have an interest in secretarial work or employing workers?

This year, TOHS students were offered classes in typing and shorthand for diction, general business, bookkeeping and accounting for special business situations and everyday life. Practical skills, such as sales techniques and budgeting, were studied by many students interested only in home management, while others learned valuable business methods for employment. Many students found typing and shorthand skills valuable in school work too, showing the versatility of the business education department, under chairman Lenon Parker.

Physical Education: Operation Fitness

Girls at TOHS participated in challenging physical educational programs. At the freshman and sophomore levels girls took the required courses, which emphasized team sports. Juniors and seniors chose activities in such individual-orientated sports as golf, archery, tennis, badminton, and gymnastics.

When not participating in school sports the boys at TOHS were graded on participation, coaches' evaluation, physical fitness and skill tests. The school sports curriculum also included weight lifting and running in order to get into shape.

Science is Today

Science is not just Dr. Frankenstein creating a monster, many TOHS students find. General science, everyday science, biology, chemistry, physiology, and physics cover the science "spectrum" well, giving the TOHS student wide opportunities for learning. This year, the science department incorporated the new inductive method of learning in almost all of its courses. This method utilizes experience as the learning process for the discovery of basic concepts.

Math:
Companion to Science

Today's complex and scientific society often requires a person to have a grasp of the various types of mathematics. This year the math department offered general math, algebra, advanced algebra, geometry and trigonometry.

A bit of history was also thrown into the courses. Archimedes, Descartes, Newton, and Euclid all lend their famous formulas to today's basic math.

The required courses of high school are always the hardest to entertain students, but the history department at TOHS has broken the "interest barrier." This year, new courses of study were offered, while issues of vital concern to modern society became important topics for student discussion.

The emphasis on history teaching turned to making learning more instructive by making it more fun. In International Relations, for instance, a simulation in which students operate their own nations was introduced, while in other classes the Harvard Social Studies courses and several "pilot programs" were employed.

Quest For Friendship

The memories of high school most fondly recalled are those of one's friends. Here, Kendall Wolfe symbolizes the quest for friendship with an image of the clasping of a boy's and a girl's hands. The picture stresses the interacting union between friends, bridging differences as well as time. Memories of special people and special times will be reborn in this section, picturing the classes of Thousand Oaks High School. Joan Powers served as editor of the classes section.

Bewildered Frosh Adjust In Style

Amid familiar cries of "The freshmen get smaller every year," 670 uncertain new students bravely entered the halls of TOHS, school map and schedule in hand. Being the sixth freshmen class in TOHS history, the class of 1972 brought with them a unique tradition—excellence in all sports and an abundance of spirit.

After nine months of rigorous training, the freshmen class emerged victorious, learning, if not understanding, the art of attending Thousand Oaks High School. Their minds were full of memories: Freshman Spirit Stick, several bake sales, Tale of Two Cities, Drivers' Education, Sports Night, and their Olympian Homecoming Float.

Sophomores Pursue Second Active Year

Climbing the ladder of upperclass status, the sophomores realized that the most wonderful thing about 1968 was that they were no longer freshmen. In spite of this new status, sophomores still had to ride the school bus. Taking this puncture of their ego in stride, the Class of 1971 went on to overwhelm everyone with active participation in everything and with spirit to match. They sponsored a November Sports Night and bake sale, swelling their resources. They acted in the A.S.B. plays and joined numerous clubs. When not wading through Julius Caesar and exploring the congruencies of the triangle, the sophomores built a successful Homecoming float.

Juniors Lead In Spirit and Action

"The thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts." And with the Class of 1970 it was no exception. Thoughts of college and the future filled many students minds. But in the present, the Junior class upheld previous tradition with many successful Junior-sponsored activities. After excelling in their Homecoming float, Juniors went on in producing a hit play, "Kiss and Tell." During the football season, an abundance of Junior spirit was rewarded with the Spirit Stick. The Class of '70 will look back and remember the panic that ensued when taking PSAT's and when deciding about Class Rings; the joy in holding their first Prom at a local country club.

In the future, the Class of '70 will feel satisfaction in remembering their first year as upperclassmen.

Departing Seniors Prepare For Future

As the Senior class of 1969 reached the peak of a four year career at TOHS, they could feel pride in recollecting the pattern of success they have established — scholastic achievement, participation in school events, and effective leadership. They combined their talents and energies into a unified whole-creative togetherness.

Besides floundering through Shakespearean tragedy and absorbing P.O.D. lectures, the Euphorians sponsored car washes to increase their wealth, and produced a memorable "Winter Wonderland" Senior Ball.

CLOCKWISE, FROM ABOVE: Senior girls join in a pre-game caravan; Class of 1969 advisors, Mr. Raupp and Mr. Berg, eased the strain of a hectic senior year; Seniors' antics arouse spirit at an afternoon pep rally; Euphorian Cherie Wascher does her part in the production of a "masterpiece"; Senior Greg Flick enjoys his lunch while chatting with friends.

This year, the Senior Class boasted numerous Euphorians receiving special awards and honors. The ten students who received the highest grades during their high school careers were by no means bookworms.

The Bank of America Award-winners were selected from numerous nominees after facing a selection committee composed of faculty and Mr. Rosser. These awards were given in four general areas, Science and math, fine arts, liberal arts, and vocational arts.

Other special awards were bestowed by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, rewarding Seniors for their performances on a nation wide test. This year, Thousand Oaks boasted seven students receiving Letters of Commendation for their performances, while two Lancers were named finalists in the scholarship competition.

The Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow award was awarded for performance on an exam testing knowledge of budgeting and meal-planning. This year's Junior Miss was chosen for her physical and academic achievement, poise, and artistic talent.

Top Graduates Earn Scholarships, Awards

COUNTERCLOCKWISE, FROM ABOVE: Sue Clark beams proudly after being chosen Conejo Valley's Junior Miss; Linda Calkins, Steve Still, and Louise Calkins take pride in being among TOHS's top scholars; Stephanie Chew, Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow, acquaints herself with a TOHS kitchen; Industrious students, Dan Lantz, Stephanie Chew, Sue Scanlin, and Debra Tabak are a few fine examples of TOHS's top scholars; National Merit Finalists Don Lantz and Andy Landis, discuss Roman numeral slide rules.

Euphorians Choose Cream of the Crop

Each year the Seniors are given an opportunity to honor their favorite classmates and teachers by choosing them as their Senior Superlatives. These four pages are dedicated to this year's cream of the crop—elected by the Euphorians as the most outstanding 69'ers. It is quite a collection —lovers, laughers, loyalists, and lead ers—but they're all Euphorians, chosen as the best of their class.

ABOVE: Most Dependable: Kathy O'Donohue, Steve Still; Mr. and Mrs. TOHS Teacher: Mrs. Brown and Mr. Luft

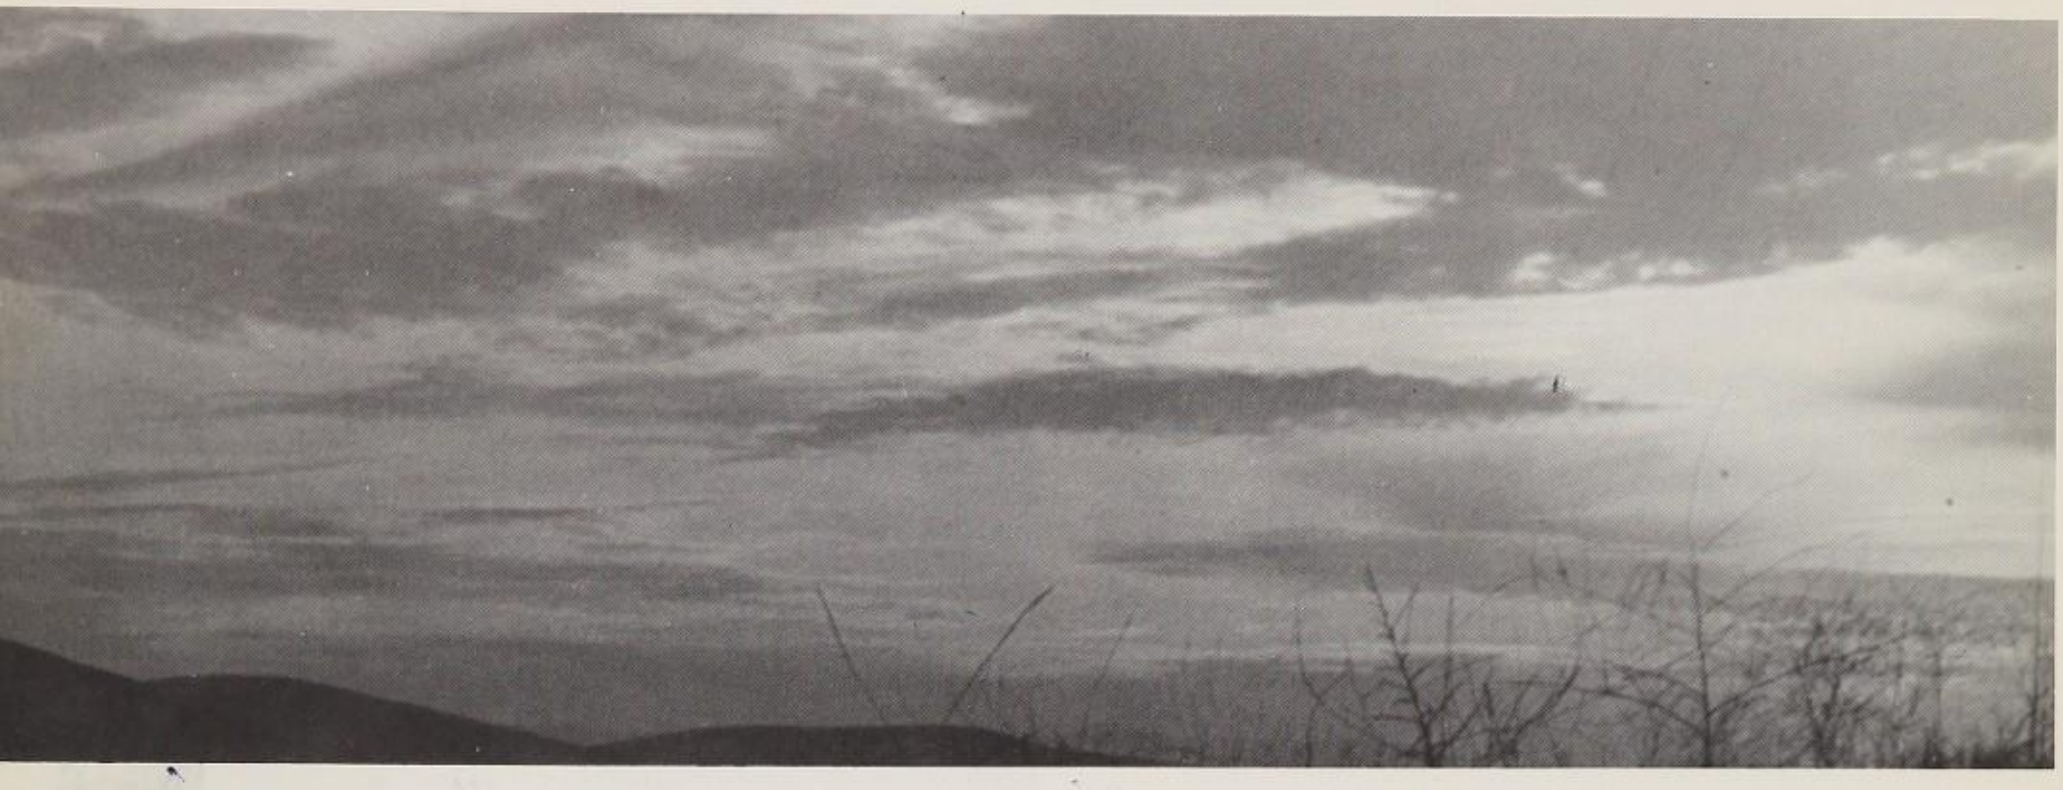
Quest For the Future . . .



It may seem in leaving Thousand Oaks High that one's personal quest has temporarily been fulfilled. Memories of the struggles and rewards of high school will remain, but the familiar challenge will be gone. It may take one some time to realize that his years in high school were merely the first steps of a long journey, and not an end in themselves. This realization, however, starts one on the major quest of his life—the quest for the future, which the Class of '69 is now just beginning, and which will prove to be the most challenging, and yet the most fullilling quest of all.

The Lancer Legend extends its warmest thanks to its advisor, Mr. Andrews, and his assistant, Mr. Czellak, to all those on the annual staff, to O'Connor Bros. Studios, to Kendall Wolfe for his division page designs, to the News-Chronicle for its pictures, and finally to Mr. Viga Hall, our Taylor Publishing Company representative.

Terri — oops wrong name
oh well anyway I'm glad I got to know you better this year cuz last year I hardly saw you at all last year during Biology.
Good luck with
S. Y. unless you don't want it. Next time your car comes out make it a time I'm driving my car cuz I'll give you a push but my Mom wouldn't in our newone. See ya (I hope)
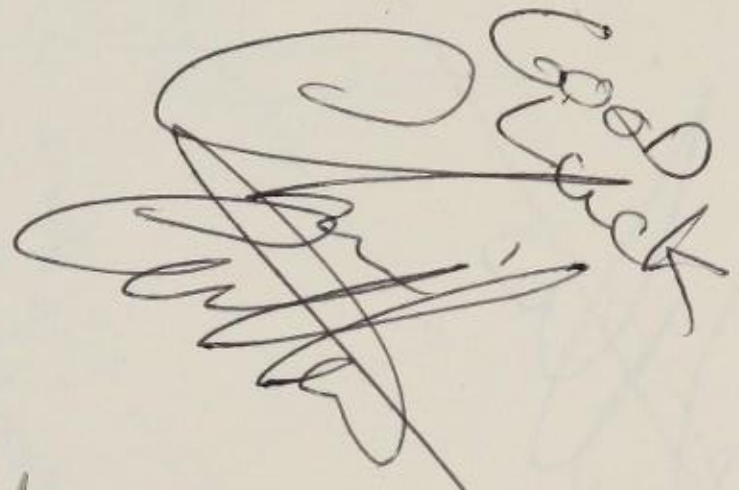
Jerry oops, wrong
again!



Jane,
Time flies, I made it out of Biology class - I thought it'd never make it. I like how you're sort of always the first 3 words like that sort of tick me off sometimes but otherwise you're one of them.
Hope you get into nursing school. Have a nice summer

Jerry,
You're a really cool dude, and one of my best friends since 7th grade. Don't break too many girls hearts this summer, play it cool in the future, and try to stay sober once in awhile.
Mike Smith

Jerry Even though Bruce always did the experiments you pretended you knew something so that's cool, your smart enough. And Remember, Chicks are terrible drivers even with license

Dear Terry:

How are you? I am fine. You dared me to fill the page so I guess I'll have to try!

This is "the year of the Lancer!" We will be victorious. I guess all that really doesn't mean too much, but it fills the page.

You are a really great guy, and I'm glad I met you. You have made my beginnings here at T.O. that much more enjoyable.

I hope you find that "one special girl"; for a world without love is a meaningless one.

Well kid. I guess I'll leave a little room for someone else.

Love Always

Terry, I haven't known you for very long... in fact I met you when we were banding together because of a fight threat and you seemed like a good team to sign up with. Hope to have you in some of my classes next year. Good luck in your Senior year.

Rick Ballard

Have a great Summer
Hope you will be back next year. I can't wait to see what you do with the Tenth Grade.
